PREFACE

THIS book is different in some essential points from every other designed for beginners now in use in our schools. This fact gives the reason for its existence.

Its vocabulary is made up largely of words common to Caesar, Nepos, and the Viri Romae, and has been selected with great care from those found most frequently in these sources.

The noun and verb have been treated for the most part in alternating lessons. Their forms have been analyzed in such a manner as to give practical guidance to the pupil, without any effort on our part to trace in such analysis the historical development of the words, even where exact knowledge in this line is possible. Verb and noun exercises as mere form drill have been suggested, rather than given in set exercises.

Carefully graded reading lessons, fifty in number, are an important feature of the book. About three fifths of these are based on Caesar, about one fifth consists of fables, and the rest of a Latin version of the Labors of Hercules. These are led up to gradually in vocabulary and exercises in such a way as to smooth the path of the pupil, and at the same time leave difficulties sufficient to compel mental exertion on his part.

Word formation has been treated in a simple and suggestive way, and made practical by brief exercises running through the latter half of the book. Word lists occur at intervals, in which related words are starred. These furnish material to the teacher for almost unlimited exercises on vocabulary, form, word comparison, and English derivatives.

The main part of the book concludes with a series of connected English passages for translation into Latin, and colloquia drawn from incidents, historical and traditional, in Caesar's life. These may be taken or omitted at the discretion of the teacher.

The appendix contains a review of forms and constructions, with full references to the treatment of the same subjects in the text.

In spelling we have in most instances used Brambach as our authority, and in the marking of hidden quantities we have followed in the main the usage of Marx. We have, for the sake of uniformity in the principal parts of verbs, given the masculine form of the perfect passive participle, even where, in the nature of the case, the neuter form would be used.

We wish to acknowledge our especial obligation to Professor John Williams White of Harvard University for his kind permission to use the results of his experience as embodied in his Greek textbooks for beginners, and to Dr. Theodore H. Johnston, Principal of the Cleveland West High School, for his helpful suggestions during the progress of our work.

We send this book forth in the belief that it will supply a need in its department, and lead easily and naturally into the broad and beautiful fields of Latin literature.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS

1. Every Latin exercise should be carefully pronounced by the pupils.

2. Groups of words in common phrases should be committed to memory and frequently recited, and brief passages in Latin prose or verse should be learned by the pupils.

3. No word should be accepted from the pupil as correctly written unless every syllable long by nature has its mark of quantity.

4. Constant attention should be called to related words.

5. The word lists should be made in each case a separate lesson and used for emphasizing suggestion four, as well as for drill in remembering words.

6. "Vocabulary and form" should be made a daily watchword, and frequent attention should be called to the terminal parts of inflected words as showing their relation to others.

7. Rapid oral work should be demanded in translating from Latin into English and from English into Latin.

8. No pupil should be allowed in translating to violate in the slightest degree the purity of the English idiom.

9. The reading lessons should be made the basis, whenever time serves, of easy colloquia between pupil and teacher or between pupil and pupil.

10. Stories of Roman life should be told in the class, and the pupils encouraged in every way to learn more of the people whose language they are studying; Caesar, Cicero, Pompey, and other eminent Romans should be made living personalities to them.

11. Some ideas of the house and of the home life of the Romans should be given to the pupils.

12. The Roman arms, armor, and utensils should be described and, as far as possible, shown in pictures and models.

HINTS TO PUPILS

1. Observe closely every word, form, and construction as you meet it in your work.

2. Learn each lesson with absolute thoroughness.

3. Connect each lesson with the preceding one by a systematic review in thought of its prominent points. No teacher's assigned review can benefit you so much.

4. Compare words with one another and note carefully those that are related in form and meaning.

5. Observe the turn in meaning given to the body or root of a word by the various prefixes and suffixes.

6. Try to gain an idea of a new sentence or paragraph by seeing the words in the Latin order. Think your way into the meaning. Use your imagination to guide you in deciding what a person would be likely to say under the circumstances.

7. Consult the general vocabulary sparingly, and never until you have used your utmost endeavor to discern the meaning of a word through association or connection.

8. Observe sharply and pronounce accurately such words as you must look up, and make them thoroughly your own. Then turn to the vocabulary for their meaning.

9. Learn to use all helps in the most effective way. Look up all references and learn them. Never shirk the effort to understand and use every suggestion made in note and example.

10. Read these hints frequently and follow the instructions here given.

THE BEGINNER'S LATIN BOOK

THE ALPHABET

1. The Latin alphabet has twenty-four letters, and is the same as the English, except that it lacks j and w. The character i has the force of both a vowel and a consonant; k is seldom used; y and z occur chiefly in words borrowed from the Greek.

2. Vowels. — The vowels are a, e, i, o, u, y; the other letters are consonants.

3. Vowels may be either long or short. In this book long vowels will be marked (ˉ); all others are to be regarded as short.

4. Consonants. — The consonants are divided into Mutes, Liquids, Spirants, and Double Consonants.

The mutes are { labials or p-mutes: p, b, (ph).
linguals or t-mutes: t, d, (th).
palatals or k-mutes: k, c, g, q, (ch).

The liquids are l, m, n, (r).

The spirants are f, h, s, z. { s and z are also sibilants.

The double consonants are x (cs or gs) and z (ds).

PRONUNCIATION

5. The two methods in use are the Roman and the English. The Roman is recommended.

6. Roman Method. — The vowels are pronounced as follows :—

ā like the second a in ahd

ē “ e in *prey*¹

ī “ i “ *machine*¹

ō “ o “ *tone*¹

ū “ oo “ *tool*¹

ǎ like the first a in ahd

ě “ e in met

ĩ “ i “ pin

ǫ “ o “ for ũ “ oo “ took

y is pronounced like the German ü, a sound intermediate between u and i.

7. The diphthongs are pronounced as follows :—

æ like ai in *aisle*¹

au “ ou “ *our*¹ ei “ ei “ *vein*¹

oe like oi in toil

eu “ eu “ feud

ui “ we

8. Most of the consonants are pronounced as in English. The following points are to be emphasized :—

c is like c in can

g “ g “ go

i consonant is like y in yes

s is like s in so

t “ t “ tin

v is like w in went ph “ ph “ alphabet

ch “ ch “ ache

bs “ ps “ lips

h is a mere breathing

9. English Method. — In this method the words are in the main pronounced as in English.

LESSON II

SYLLABLES — QUANTITY — ACCENT

10. Syllables. — Each Latin word has as many syllables as it has separate vowels and diphthongs.

11. A single consonant between two vowels is joined with the following vowel : a-ni-mus, mind.

12. Doubled consonants are always separated : pu-el-la, girl.

13. Of two or more consonants standing between two vowels, as many are joined with the following vowel as can be pronounced with it: e-pi-stu-la, letter; mā-gnus, great; ma-gi-strī, masters; but in compounds the component parts are separated: sub-le-vō, I lift up.

14. The last syllable of a word is called the ultima; the next to the last, the penult; the one before that, the antepenult.

15. Quantity of Vowels. —

NOTE. — A few general rules for determining the length of vowels are here given, but in many cases the quantity can be learned by observation only. The pupil should carefully note and learn the length of each vowel in every Latin word as it occurs in this book. Too much stress cannot be laid upon this point.

1. A vowel before another vowel or h is short: cō-pī-a, abundance; mī-hi, to me.

2. A vowel before nd and nt is short: vō-cān-dus, to be called; vō-cānt, they call.

3. A vowel formed by contraction is long: nīl (ni-hīl), nothing.

4. A vowel before i consonant is long: Pom-pē-ius, Pompey.

5. A vowel before nf, ns, gm, gn is long: īn-fe-rō, I bring in; īn-su-la, island; ā-gmen, line of march; ī-gnis, fire.

6. Diphthongs are long: caū-sa, cause.

16. Quantity of Syllables. — Syllables¹ are distinguished as long or short, according to the time required in pronunciation, a long syllable in general requiring double the time of a short one.

1. A syllable containing a long vowel or diphthong is long by nature: hū-ius, of this one; ae-dēs, temple.

2. A syllable containing a short vowel followed by a double consonant or by two or more consonants (except a mute followed by l or r) is long by position²: vō-cant, they call.

² Such a vowel retains its short sound.

3. A syllable containing a short vowel not followed by two or more consonants is short.

4. A syllable ending in a short vowel followed by a mute with l or r is common; that is, the syllable is short in prose, but in poetry may be either long or short.

17. Accent. — 1. Words of two syllables are accented on the penult: mā-ter, mother.

2. Words of more than two syllables are accented on the penult if it is long, otherwise on the antepenult: a-mī-cus, friend; dō-mi-nus, master.

3. The ultima is never accented.

4. Certain words like -ne, -que, called enclitics and always attached to some other word, draw the accent to the syllable next preceding, whether this is long or short.

18. The following list of words should be carefully noted and accurately learned. They are in very common use and are often mispronounced.

bene, well
cottīdiē, daily dēbeō, I owe enim, for etiam, also ferē, almost filius, son hīc, here, he īdem (masc.), the same īdem (neut.), the same īferō, I bring in īnsula, island
ita, thus Italia, Italy
item, likewise
māter, mother

mihi, to me
modo, only
-ne (enclitic), sign of a question nē . . . quidem, not even nē, lest pater, father quia, because quīdam, certain quīn, but that quis, who rēgnō, I rule rēx, king sic, so tot, so many vērō, in truth

LESSON III

INFLECTION

19. Parts of Speech. — These are, as in English, the noun, adjective, pronoun, verb, adverb, preposition, conjunction, and interjection. To the last four the common name of particle is given.

20. Inflection. — This is a change made in the form of a word, to show its grammatical relations. Of the parts of speech the first four are capable of inflection, which in the case of nouns, adjectives, and pronouns is called declension, and, in the case of verbs, conjugation.

21. Declension. — In Latin, declined words have six cases¹: Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, Vocative, Ablative.

1. The Nominative is the case of the Subject or Predicate of a finite² verb.

2. The Genitive denotes Possession and some other relations, and may usually be translated by the English possessive or by the objective with of and some other prepositions.

3. The Dative is the case of the Indirect Object, and corresponds to the English objective with to or for.

4. The Accusative is the case of the Direct Object of transitive verbs and of some prepositions.

5. The Vocative is the case of Direct Address.

6. The Ablative expresses relations usually translated by the English objective with in, at, on, by, with, and from, and is often accompanied by a preposition.

² A finite verb is any form of the verb found in the Indicative, Subjunctive, or Imperative moods.

22. Stem. — That part of a noun to which significant suffixes, called case endings, are attached is called its Stem. These endings cannot in all instances be separated from their combination with the final vowel of the stem. Tables of terminations, made up for the most part of such combinations, will be given with the several declensions. These should be thoroughly committed to memory.

23. That part of the word which remains unchanged in inflection is for convenience called the Base. A noun is declined by joining to the base the proper case endings.

24. Gender. — There are three genders in Latin: the Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter.

The gender of the Latin noun is determined partly by signification, but more largely by termination.

25. General Rules for Gender. — Names of males, rivers, winds, mountains, and months are masculine.

Names of females, countries, cities, islands, trees, and plants are feminine.

Indeclinable nouns are neuter.

Special rules will be given as needed.

26. Number. — There are two numbers, as in English, the Singular and the Plural, distinguished by their terminations.

LESSON IV

THE FIRST OR A-DECLENSION

27. There are five declensions in Latin, distinguished by the ending of the Genitive singular and the final letter of the stem.¹

28. Latin nouns of the First Declension end regularly in ā and are feminine. Those denoting males are masculine. The stem ends in ā.¹

29. Silva,² f., forest, wood; stem silva-, base silv-

SINGULAR	PLURAL	TABLE OF TERMINATIONS
		SING. a	PLUR. ae
N. silv-a, a forest ³	silv-ae, forests
G. silv-ae, of a forest	silv-ārum, of forests	ae	ārum
D. silv-ae, to a forest, etc.	silv-īs, to forests, etc.	ae	īs
Ac. silv-am, a forest	silv-ās, forests	am	ās
V. silv-a, oh forest	silv-ae, oh forests	a	ae
Ab. silv-ā, from a forest, etc.	silv-īs, from forests, etc.	ā	īs

30. Observe the stem and base as given above. The stem may be found by dropping -rum of the Genitive plural. The stem vowel joined with the case ending forms the termination. The terminations added to the base give the several case forms.

31. VOCABULARY

fossa, ae, f., ditch, trench.

Gallia, ae, f., Gaul (a country of ancient Europe).

insula, ae, f., island.

terra, ae, f., land, country.

alta, high, deep.

longa, long.

magna, large, great.

et, conj., and.

est,⁴ he,⁵ she, or it is.

sunt,⁴ they are.

Decline all the nouns and adjectives in the above vocabulary like silva.

³ There is no article in Latin. Silva means forest, a forest, or the forest.

32. Examine the following : —

Īnsula est māgna, the island is large.

Observe that īnsula is the subject of est, and is in the Nominative case ; and that māgna is in the Nominative case, in agreement with īnsula.

RULES. — 1. The subject of a finite verb is in the Nominative case.

2. The adjective agrees with its noun in gender, number, and case.

33.EXERCISES

I. 1. Fossa est alta. 2. Porta est alta et longa. 3. Terra est māgna. 4. Gallia est māgna. 5. Īnsulae sunt māgnae. 6. Portae sunt māgnae et longae. 7. Silvae sunt māgnae. 8. Fossae sunt longae. 9. Fossae sunt altae et longae. 10. Porta est māgna.

Pronounce the above exercise with careful attention to quantity and accent. After translating, copy the Latin accurately, marking the quantity of all long vowels and indicating accented syllables. This practice is valuable, and, if continued for the first fifteen or sixteen lessons, will amply repay you for the time spent.

In the following exercise, and in all your future translations into Latin, mark the quantity of the vowels in all syllables long by nature.

II. 1. The ditch is long. 2. The islands are large. 3. The gate is high and long. 4. Gaul is large. 5. The land is large. 6. The ditches are deep. 7. The gates are high. 8. The island is long.

ANCIENT ROMAN COINS

LESSON V

THE FIRST CONJUGATION, PRÉSENT AND IMPERFECT
TENSES — THE DIRECT OBJECT

34. The Latin verb is regularly inflected through four conjugations, distinguished by the vowel preceding the ending -re of the Present Infinitive active: ā in the First Conjugation, ē in the Second, ě in the Third, and ī in the Fourth. Examples: vocā-re, to call; monē-re, to advise; rege-re, to rule; audī-re, to hear.

35. Voice. — Mood. — The Latin has two voices, the Active and the Passive, and three moods, the Indicative, Subjunctive, and Imperative, besides other forms of the verb: Infinitive, Participle, Gerund, and Supine, to be explained later.

36. Tenses. — The Latin has, in the Indicative mood, six tenses, the Present, Imperfect, and Future, called tenses of continued action, and Perfect, Pluperfect, and Future Perfect, called tenses of completed action.

Each tense is inflected through two numbers, the singular and the plural.

37. Principal Parts. — The principal parts of a Latin verb in the active voice consist of the first pers. sing. Pres. Ind. act., the Pres. Inf. act., the first pers. sing. Perf. Ind. act., and the Perf. Pass. Participle.

They are so called because from them all parts of the verb may be formed.

Example:	PRES. IND.	PRES. INF.	PERF. IND.	PERF. PART.
	vocō	vocāre	vocāvī	vocātus

38. Stems. — Verb forms are built upon three stems, the Present, the Perfect, and the Participial.

The Present stem of verbs of the First Conjugation ends in ā, and may be found by dropping the ending -re of the Pres. Inf. act.: vocā-re, to call: stem vocā.

39. Personal Endings. — The Present tense is formed from the Present stem by adding to it the following endings, which should be thoroughly committed to memory.

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
First Person	-m (or -ō) ¹	-mus
Second “	-s	-tis
Third “	-t	-nt

All verbs whose Present stem ends in ā are classed under the First Conjugation.

- 40. Vocō, I call. Pres. stem vocā- Princ. Parts, voc-ō, vocā-re, vocā-vī, vocā-tus

	SINGULAR	PRESENT TENSE	PLURAL
1.	voc-ō , ² I call ⁴		vocā-mus , we call
2.	vocā-s , ⁵ thou callest (you call)		vocā-tis , you call
3.	voca-t , he calls		voca-nt , they call

41. In the Indicative, -bā is the sign of the Imperfect tense. The Imperfect tense of vocō consists of the Present stem vocā + the Imperfect tense-sign, bā + personal endings.

IMPERFECT TENSE
1. vocā-ba-m , I called ⁶	vocā-bā-mūs , we called
2. vocā-bā-s , you called	vocā-bā-tis , you called
3. vocā-ba-t , he called	vocā-ba-nt , they called

² Voc-ō is for vocā-ō. Instead of m, ō is generally used as the ending of the first pers. Pres. Ind. act. In the First Conjugation it absorbs ā of the stem. See 39.

³ Observe that in English the personal pronouns, when used as subjects, are expressed and precede the verb; that in Latin they are not expressed as separate words (except for emphasis), but are indicated by suffixes. The same is true of modifications of mood, tense, and number. It is the end of a verb, then, that must be examined to determine its relations of mood, tense, person, and number: voca-t, calls-he; i.e. he calls.

⁵ Always used when but one person is referred to, and usually translated you call.

⁶ Also, and frequently, I was calling or did call.

42. Examine the following :—

Agricola nautam vocat, the farmer calls the sailor.

Nautam is the direct object of vocat, and is in the Accusative case.

RULE.—The direct object of a transitive verb is in the Accusative case.

VOCABULARY

agricola, ae, m., farmer.

nauta, ae, m., sailor.

prōvincia, ae, f., province.

rīpa, ae, f., river bank.

bona, good.

dēnsa, dense, thick.

in, prep. with Acc., into, against; with Abl., in, on, upon, over.

erant, they were (there were).

erat, he was (there was).

NOTE.—Inflect with suitable objects selected from the vocabulary convocō and laudō, in the Present and Imperfect tenses, translating the forms in each case.

EXERCISES

I. 1. Agricola nautās vocat. 2. Nauta agricolās in silvam convocābat. 3. Nauta in prōvinciā māgnā est. 4. Agricolās in dēnsās silvās convocābant. 5. Nutae in altā rīpā erant. 6. Silva est dēnsa et māgna. 7. Prōvincia māgna est in Galliā. 8. Nautās in insulam māgnam convocābās. 9. Fossae in prōvinciā erant bonae. 10. Nautās et agricolās laudābāmus. 11. In Galliam nautās convocās.

II. 1. The sailor was calling the farmers. 2. The farmers were in the dense woods. 3. The provinces were large. 4. The sailors were on the high river bank. 5. The woods were high and dense. 6. He called the sailors into Gaul. 7. You were calling together the sailors into the large province. 8. The island is large and long. 9. We are praising the farmers in the large province. 10. They were praising the sailors on the island.

LESSON VI

THE SECOND CONJUGATION, PRESENT AND IMPERFECT TENSES

45. All verbs whose Present stem ends in ē are classed under the Second Conjugation.

46. Moneō, I advise or warn. Pres. Stem monē- Princ. Parts, mone-ō, monē-re, mon-uī, moni-tus

SINGULAR	PRESENT TENSE	PLURAL
1. monē-ō , I advise or am advising	monē-mus , we advise, etc.
2. monē-s , you advise, etc.	monē-tis , you advise, etc.
3. monē-t , he advises, etc.	monē-nt , they advise, etc.
IMPERFECT TENSE
1. monē-ba-m , I advised or was advising	monē-bā-mus , we advised, etc.
2. monē-bā-s , you advised, etc.	monē-bā-tis , you advised, etc.
3. monē-ba-t , he advised, etc.	monē-ba-nt , they advised, etc.

47. The Imperfect tense of moneō consists of the present stem monē + the Imperfect tense sign -bā + the personal endings. See 39.

NOTE. — Inflect moneō in the singular with the direct object agricolam, and in the plural with nautās. Inflect all the verbs in the following vocabulary with suitable objects selected from Vocabularies 1-3. Translate your forms into English, taking them in irregular order, and render them again into Latin in the same way. Repeat this exercise with every verb-paradigm given in this book.

VOCABULARY

Belgae, ārum, m. pl., the Belgae,¹ a people of Gaul.
Celtae, ārum, m. pl., the Celts, a people of Gaul.
cōpia, ae, f., abundance; in pl., sup- videō, ēre, vīdī, vīsus, see.

nōn, adv., not.
per, prep. w. Acc., through.

EXERCISES

I. 1. Belgae per prōvinciam properant. 2. Videō māgnam īnsulam. 3. Gallia longās viās habet. 4. Celtae agricolās in dēnsīs silvīs armābant. 5. Belgās in Galliā saepe vidēbāmus. 6. Belgae cōpiās in prōvinciam vocābant. 7. Dēnsās silvās in īnsulīs māgnīs vident. 8. Per māgnās silvās in prōvinciam properābam. 9. Celtās et Belgās in Galliā vidēbat. 10. In viā longā agricolās nōn videt.

II. 1. We were often seeing farmers on the road. 2. They were warning the sailors and farmers. 3. You were hastening into the province. 4. We see the high gates. 5. We were not hastening through the dense forests. 6. There¹ are farmers in the forest and sailors on the island. 7. The Belgae were in the large and dense forests. 8. We were often calling the sailors together into the island.

V. lēgāt-e	lēgāt-ī	bell-um	bell-a	e	ī	um	a
Ab. lēgāt-ō	lēgāt-īs	bell-ō	bell-īs	ō	īs	ō	īs

51. Nouns in -us are usually masculine, in -um neuter. The stem ends in o, and is formed by dropping -rum of the Gen. plur.

¹ Omit there in translating, — Sunt agricolae, etc. In such sentences there is redundant, and has no Latin equivalent.

² All neuter nouns have their Nominative, Accusative, and Vocative alike, and in the plural they always end in a.

Learn carefully the table of terminations, and observe that a noun in -us or -um of the Second Declension is inflected by joining those endings to the base, which is found by dropping i of the Genitive singular.

Inflect all nouns in the following vocabulary.

52. Examine the following : —

Fossae agricolārum erant longae, the farmers' ditches were long.

Observe that agricolārum limits fossae, and is in the Genitive case.

RULE. — A noun limiting another noun and denoting a different person or thing is in the Genitive case.

53. Examine the following : —

1. Belgae agricolās armant, the Belgae are arming the farmers.
2. Agricolās Belgae armant, the Belgae are arming the farmers.
3. Agricolās armant Belgae, the Belgae are arming the farmers.
4. Armant Belgae agricolās, the Belgae are arming the farmers.

In 1, no special emphasis is laid on any one word ; in 2, agricolās is emphatic ; in 3, Belgae ; in 4, armant.

The normal order of a Latin sentence is : subject, modifiers of the subject, modifiers of the verb, verb ; but this order is constantly changed for the sake of emphasis.

VOCABULARY

Aquītānī, ōrum , m. pl., the Aquitani , ¹ a people of Gaul.	oppūgnō, āre, āvī, ātus , attack, assault. castra, ōrum , n. pl., camp.	ad , prep. w. Acc., to, towards, near.
nūntius, ī , ² m., messenger.	multa , much , pl. many.
oppidum, ī , n., town.	quoque , conj., also (always following the emphatic word).
lāta , broad, wide. moveō, ēre, mōvī, mōtus , move.

² Nouns in -ius and -ium often make the Genitive singular in a single ī, with no change of accent.

55.

EXERCISES

I. 1. Oppida lātās portās habent. 2. Ad castra Belgārum nautae properābant. 3. Nōn saepe agricolae oppida oppūgnant.
4. Nūntiī in castra Belgārum multās cōpiās convocābant. 5. Oppida Aquitānōrum quoque oppūgnābant. 6. In castrīs Celtārum nautās armābāmus. 7. Per castra ad oppidum agricolae properant. 8. Belgae cōpiās in castra convocant. 9. Cetae quoque ad oppidum saepe properant. 10. Aquitānī castra saepe movēbant.

II. 1. The Belgae assault a town of the Celts. 2. The Aqitanians also hasten to the town. 3. The Celts move their¹ camp.
4. We often saw the towns of the Aquitanians. 5. They were warning the sailors of the province. 6. There² were messengers of the Belgae in the town. 7. The lieutenants are arming the farmers in the broad province. 8. We were praising the troops of the Aquitanians.

² Omit. See 49, n.

57. Observe that this adjective is declined in the feminine like a noun of the First Declension, and in the masculine and neuter like nouns of the Second Declension in -us and -um respectively.

Decline together nauta fīdus, frūmentum multum, carrus māgnus. Observe that an adjective agrees with its noun in gender, number, and case, but not always in form.

58. Examine the following : —

Belgae populō Rōmānō frūmentum dant, the Belgae give grain to the Roman people.

Observe that populō Rōmānō represents the persons to whom the grain is given, and that it is in the Dative case.

RULE. — The Dative is the case of the indirect object, and is used with verbs of giving, and others whose meaning permits.

VOCABULARY

Aquītānia, ae, f., Aquitania, a division of Gaul.

arma, ōrum, n. pl., arms.

carrus, ī, m., cart.

Gallī filiābus agricolārum arma nōn dabant. 9. Filiam bonam nautae in silvā dēnsā vident. 10. Belgae contrā populum Rōmānum properābant.

II. 1. The Gauls give arms to the faithful inhabitants of the towns. 2. Aquitania is in Gaul. 3. The faithful farmers are providing much grain. 4. The sailor's daughter saw the farmers on the high river bank. 5. There is a great scarcity of carts in the province. 6. The Belgae do not give arms to the daughters of the faithful farmers. 7. The Gauls are hastening against the Roman people. 8. The inhabitants of the town were faithful.¹

KINSHIP OF WORDS

Study the following list with great care, and do not leave it until you have thoroughly mastered it, so that you know every Latin word and its English equivalent.

Note all words—marked by double stars—that are related to one another in form and meaning. Learn these by associating them together; as, arma, arms; armō, I arm; vocō, I call; con-vocō, I call together; Galli, Gauls; Gallia, Gaul.

The words marked with a single star are related to one or more found in other lists. These should be noted and retained in memory with especial care, as an aid to the acquisition of their kindred words. Those similarly marked in subsequent lists refer both backward and forward, and will serve as a review of related words already learned as well as an aid in acquiring new words which are akin to them.

¹ Nom. plur. masc., in agreement with the subject.

2. regē-bā-s, you ruled	regē-bā-tis, you ruled
3. regē-ba-t, he ruled	regē-ba-nt, they ruled

64. All verbs whose Present stem ends in ē are regularly classed under the Third Conjugation.

The vowel ē is dropped before ō, becomes u before nt, and i before the other endings of the Present Indicative active. The ē of the Imperfect tense is long.

NOTE. — A thorough review should here be made of the preceding verb-paradigms, and the verbs in the following vocabulary should be inflected like regō. See also 47, note.

68. Nouns of the Second Declension in -er and -ir are masculine. The stem ends in o, as in nouns in -us and -um. Note, also, the base to which the endings are joined to make the various case-forms. It is found by dropping ī of the Genitive singular.

Observe that the table of terminations is the same as in nouns in -us, except that the ending is lacking in the Nominative and Vocative singular.

69. Like puer, decline — gener, erī, m., son-in-law.

socer, erī, m., father-in-law.

liberī, ōrum, m. pl., children (freeborn¹).

armiger, erī, m., armor bearer.

signifer, erī, m., standard bearer.

vesper, erī, m., evening.

Learn these words. Most nouns of the Second Declension in -er are declined like ager.

70. Examine the following : —

1. Lēgātum vitā privat, he deprives the ambassador of life.

2. Nūntium cūrā liberat, he frees the messenger from care.

SIGNIFER

¹ Compare liberī, liber (free) and liberō (deliver).

Observe that privat and liberat are verbs of depriving and freeing, and that they are used with the Ablative case without a preposition.

RULE. — Verbs of depriving and freeing take the Ablative without a preposition.

This rule extends to adjectives of like meaning: filia agricolae cūrā libera¹ erat, the farmer's daughter was free from care.

In case of other verbs of separation the usage varies, some taking the ablative with a preposition, some without, and some admitting either construction.

1. Cōstituunt oppidum oppugnāre, they decide to attack the town.
2. Mātūrat liberōs convocāre, he hastens to call the children together.

Observe that the use of the Infinitive in the above is exactly the same as in the English sentences.

RULE.—The Infinitive is used with verbs meaning to decide, hasten, begin, and in general with those requiring a second action of the same subject to complete their meaning (Complementary Infinitive).

75. Examine the following :—

1. Aquitānī sunt incolae Galliae, the Aquitani are inhabitants of Gaul.
2. Aquitānī, incolae Galliae, multa bella gerunt, the Aquitani, inhabitants of Gaul, are waging many wars.

In 1, incolae is a predicate noun, and agrees in case with the subject, Aquitānī; in 2, it limits Aquitānī, denotes the same persons, and agrees with it in case.

RULES.—1. A noun in the predicate, with an intransitive verb, agrees with the subject in case.

2. A noun limiting another, and denoting the same person or thing, is said to be in apposition with it, and agrees with it in case.

LESSON XII

THE THIRD DECLENSION, MUTE STEMS — LABIAL AND PALATAL MUTES

78.¹ Stems of the Third Declension end in i or a consonant. Those ending in a consonant may be divided into muté and liquid stems.

1. Mute stems may be subdivided into labial, palatal, and lingual stems.

2. Labial stems end in b and p. Those in b (except chalybs, steel) are feminine; those in p are chiefly masculine; none are neuter.

3. Palatal stems end in c or g. Those in c preceded by a consonant or long vowel are chiefly feminine; those in c preceded by a short vowel and those in g are chiefly masculine.

4. The stem is found by dropping the ending -is of the Genitive singular: dux, duc-is, stem duc. The base is the same as the stem.

5. The Nominative is formed from the stem by adding s, but note vowel changes in some instances, as in princeps, principis, stem princip-; c and g of the stem unite with s of the Nominative ending to form x.

LESSON XIII

THE THIRD DECLENSION, LINGUAL STEMS

82.¹ Nouns whose stems end in a lingual (t, d) drop the final letter of the stem before s in forming the Nominative singular: aestās, aestāt-is, stem aestāt-. Neuters have for the Nominative the simple stem with some modifications: caput, capit-is, stem capit-. Neuter stems ending in two consonants or in -at, drop the final letter in forming the Nominative: cor, cord-is, heart, stem cord-; poēma, poēmat-is, poem, stem poēmat-.

HOW TO READ

1. Study, as a whole, the passage given, taking in at one view as many words as the eye can see.

2. Try to recall words previously given, and study into the meaning of those related to them in form.

3. Note forms and relations of words so as to see the entire thought before making any attempt at translation. In doing this, follow strictly the Latin order, observing carefully the arrangement of words and the marks of punctuation.

4. Translate into clear and idiomatic English.

READING LESSON : Incolae Galliae

Belgae et¹ Aquitānī et Celtae Galliam incolunt. Belgae sunt fortissimī et cum Germānīs saepe contendunt. Helvētīi sunt Celtārum fortissimī, quod cum Germānīs continentur contendunt. Helvētiōrum dux quondam erat Orgetorīx, cūius² auctōritās māgna erat in cīvitāte.

Decline all nouns and adjectives, and give the principal parts of all verbs in this passage.

LESSON XV

THE FOURTH CONJUGATION, PRESENT AND IMPERFECT TENSES—THE ABLATIVE OF SPECIFICATION—QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

90. The Fourth Conjugation includes all verbs whose Present stem ends in ī : mūni-ō, mūni-re, Pres. stem mūnī-.

Audiō, I hear. Pres. stem audi-
Princ. Parts, audi-ō, audi-re, audi-vī, audi-tus

1. audi-ō , I hear, am hearing		audi-mus , we hear, are hearing
2. audi-s , you hear, etc.		audi-tis , you hear, etc.
3. audi-t , he hears, etc.		audi-u-nt , they hear, etc.

IMPERFECT TENSE

1. audi-ē-ba-m , I heard, was hearing	audi-ē-bā-mus , we heard, etc.
2. audi-ē-bā-s , you heard, etc.	audi-ē-bā-tis , you heard, etc.
3. audi-ē-ba-t , he heard, etc.	audi-ē-ba-nt , they heard, etc.

92. Observe that in the third person plural of the Present u precedes the personal ending, but that in every other form of that tense the endings are joined directly to the stem.

93. Observe that the Imperfect tense consists of the Present stem + ē + tense-sign -bā + the personal endings.

Review carefully the Present and Imperfect tenses of the preceding conjugations,¹ and notice differences in formation where they occur. Inflect, as above, the following verbs of the fourth conjugation: sentīō, I feel; vinciō, I bind; inveniō, I find.

94. Examine the following:—

Puer magistrum virtūte praestat, the boy excels his master in valor.

Observe that virtūte is in the Ablative case, and expresses that in which the boy excels.

RULE.—The Ablative is used to express that in respect to which anything is or is done (Ablative of Specification).

amīcitia, ae, f., friendship.

praestō, āre, stitī, stitus, excel.

veniō, īre, vēnī, ventus, come.

nōnne, ne, num, signs of questions to be explained in this lesson.

96. Examine the following:—

1. Nōnne Helvētīi pācem cōfirmant? do not the Helvetians establish peace?

2. Num est palūs māgna? is the marsh large (i.e. the marsh is not large, is it)?

3. Vidēsne sīgnum? do you see the standard?

Observe that the particle² nōnne suggests the answer yes, num the answer no, and that -ne, always enclitic,³ simply asks for information.

³ The name enclitic is given to -ne and other words which like it are appended to some other word.

97. Examine the following : —

1. Nōne Caesar pūgnābat? was not Caesar fighting?

Pūgnābat,	Sānē pūgnābat,	Vērō,	Etiam,	Ita,
He was.	Certainly he was.	Certainly.	Yes (lit., even).	Yes (so).

2. Num Caesar agricola erat? Caesar was not a farmer, was he?

Minimē,	Minimē vērō,	Nōn erat
By no means.	Certainly not.	No.

Observe that the Latin has no words for yes and no, and that answers are given by the repetition of the verb in the proper form, either with or without certain affirmative or negative particles, or by the use of these particles without the verb.

EXERCISES

I. 1. Nōne¹ Helvētīi pācem et amīcitiam cum multīs cīvitatibus cōfīrmābant? Sānē cōfīrmābant. 2. Num² puer magistrum auctōritātē³ praestat? Minimē vērō. 3. Venitne⁴ in castra Helvētiōrum? 102.² Rules for Gender and Formation of Nominative from Stem. — I. Stems in l form the Nominative without s, and are masculine.

2. Stems in r form the Nominative without s, and most in -er and -or are masculine, most in -ar and -ur are neuter.

3. Most masculines and feminines in -n drop n in the Nominative, and change the preceding vowel to ō: virgō, virgin-is, f., virgin, stem virgin-. Most neuters retain -n, and change a preceding i to e. See flūmen, 99.

LESSON XVIII

THE THIRD DECLENSION — I-STEMS — THE ABLATIVE OF ACCOMPANIMENT

111.¹ Vowel-stems of the Third Declension end in i.² The Nominative singular of masculines and feminines is formed regularly by adding s to the stem.

The Nominative singular of neuters is usually the same as the stem with the change of i to e. If i of the stem is preceded by -al or -ar, i is dropped, or, in a few cases, changed to e: animal, animāl-is, stem animāl-i-; calcar, calcār-is, spur, stem calcār-i-; mare, mar-is, stem mari-.

I-stems end regularly in -ium in the Genitive plural. All masculines and feminines ended originally in -im in the Accusative singular, but i has been changed to e except in a few forms.

Some masculines and feminines, and almost all neuters, have the Ablative singular in -ī.

Masculines and feminines fluctuate between -īs and -ēs in the Accusative plural, but all neuters have -ia.

112. I-stems include: (a) nouns of the Third Declension in -ēs, -is and -e having in the Genitive the same number of syllables as in the Nominative; (b) those in -er (except pater, māter, frāter, and accipiter); (c) neuters in -al, -ar, which have lost a final e.

LESSON XIX

THE FIRST AND SECOND CONJUGATIONS, FUTURE TENSE— THE SUBSTANTIVE USE OF ADJECTIVES

117. In the First and Second Conjugations -bi is the sign of the Future tense.

The Future tense of vocō consists of the Present stem vocā + the Future tense sign -bi + the personal endings.

The Future tense of monēō consists of the Present stem monē + the Future tense sign -bi + the personal endings.

| 3. vocā-bu-nt , they will call | monē-bu-nt , they will advise |

Observe that i of the tense sign is lost before -ō in the first person singular, and changes to u before -nt in the third person plural.

119. Examine the following : —

- Nostri in castra veniēbant, our men were coming into the camp.
- Māgna cum parvis compōnit, he compares great things with small.

RULE. — Plural adjectives are quite freely used as nouns, the masculine to denote persons, the neuter to denote things.

NOTE. — This usage occurs sometimes in the singular.

I-STEMS (Continued) — WORD LIST III — READING LESSON

122. Certain nouns of the Third Declension are inflected in the singular like consonant stems,³ and in the plural like i-stems.⁴ These were originally vowel stems, but have taken on certain consonantal forms. Among these are monosyllables with two consonants preceding the vowel of the stem ending, together with imber, bris, m., shower, and some other dissyllables. These are best classed as i-stems.

LESSON XXI

THE THIRD AND FOURTH CONJUGATIONS, FUTURE TENSE—
THE THIRD CONJUGATION, VERBS IN -io, FUTURE—THE

SINGULAR

1. rega-m	audia-m	capia-m
2. regē-s	audiē-s	capiē-s
3. rege-t	audie-t	capie-t

PLURAL

1. regē-mus	audiē-mus	capiē-mus
2. regē-tis	audiē-tis	capiē-tis
3. rege-nt	audie-nt	capie-nt

Observe the similarity in the inflection of these three verbs. The Future first sing. of regō is formed by changing e of the stem to a, and adding the personal ending m. The e of the stem is retained in the other forms.

The Future of capiō, stem capie-, is formed in the same way.

The Future of audiō is formed in the first sing. by changing the stem vowel to ia and adding the personal ending m, and in the other forms by changing it to iē and adding the personal endings.

The ē is long in the second sing. and in the first and second plural.

129. Examine the following : —

Caesari erat cūrae, it was a care to Caesar (it was to Caesar for a care).

The Latin often uses a Dative of the object for which, together with a Dative of the person for whom, where the English uses a predicate noun and an indirect object. This is called the double Dative, and is found principally with the verb sum.

LESSON XXIII

THE CARDINAL NUMERALS—THE ACCUSATIVE OF TIME AND SPACE—READING LESSON

139. The Cardinal numerals are the numbers used in counting. The following furnish a basis for forming the others.

1, ūnus	15, quīndecim	80, octōgintā
2, duo	16, sēdecim	90, nōnāgintā
3, trēs	17, septendecim	100, centum

The hundreds are declined like the plural of fīdus,¹ and milia like the plural of animal.

¹ They make the Gen. plur. in -um instead of -ōrum.

141. Examine the following :

1. Multōs annōs in oppidō manet, he remains many years in the town.
2. Ducentōs pedēs liberōs portat, he carries the children two hundred feet.

Observe that multōs annōs is in the Accusative case, and expresses duration of time, and that ducentōs pedēs is in the same case, and expresses extent of space.

RULE. — Duration of time and extent of space are expressed by the Accusative.

	2. es-tis , you are	er-ā-tis , you were	er-i-tis , you will be
	3. s-u-nt , they are	er-a-nt , they were	er-u-nt , they will be

Learn the inflection of this verb thoroughly. It occurs very frequently as a principal verb, and is used in the conjugation of certain passive forms.

² The Departure.

146. Examine the following : —

Domus erat agricolae, the farmer had a house (there was to the farmer a house).

Agricolae is in the Dative case, and denotes the possessor of the house.

RULE. — The Dative is used with sum and similar verbs to denote the possessor.

LESSON XXV

THE FIRST CONJUGATION, PERFECT SYSTEM—THE ABLATIVE OF DESCRIPTION

152. The Perfect, Pluperfect, and Future Perfect tenses—called tenses of completed action—correspond in the main to the tenses of the same name in English, except that the Perfect has two uses, one to express an act done in simple past time—the Perfect Historical—and one to express an action begun in the past and continued to the present—the Perfect Definite.

Examples: vocā-v-ī, perfect, I called or have called.

vocā-v-er-a-m, pluperfect, I had called.

vocā-v-er-ō, future perfect, I shall have called.

153. To form the Perfect stem v(u) is regularly added to the Present stem: vocā-v-, but it is sometimes added to the root:⁴ son-u-.

154. Latin verbs have special personal endings in certain forms of the Perfect tense. Hence, attention should be given to the following table, as well as to the paradigms.

² mihi erit. See 146.

³ See 151, I., 9.

⁴ The root is the ultimate part of a word underlying the stem, and contains the idea of the word without modifications.

PRESENT TENSE. — TABLE OF ENDINGS

SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. -ī	-mus
2. -stī	-stis
3. -t	-ērunt or -ēre

156.

2. vocā-v-i-stī , you called, etc.	vocā-v-i-stis , you called, etc.
3. vocā-v-i-t , he called, etc.	vocā-v-ērunt , they called, etc.

PLUPERFECT

1. vocā-v-era-m , I had called	vocā-v-erā-mus , we had called
2. vocā-v-erā-s , you had called	vocā-v-erā-tis , you had called
3. vocā-v-era-t , he had called	vocā-v-era-nt , they had called

FUTURE PERFECT

1. vocā-v-er-ō , I shall have called	vocā-v-eri-mus , we shall have called
2. vocā-v-eri-s , you will have called	vocā-v-eri-tis , you will have called
3. vocā-v-eri-t , he will have called	vocā-v-eri-nt , they will have called

Observe that ī, erā, eri are the tense signs of the Perfect, Pluperfect, and Future Perfect respectively.

Apply 47, note, to convocō, postulō, and prīvō in the Perfect system.

157. Examine the following : —

1. Orgetorix erat vir magnā auctoritāte in civitatē, Orgetorix was a man of great authority in the state.
2. Filiae agricolae erant bonō animō, the farmer's daughters were of good disposition.

Observe that in 1 auctoritāte is in the Ablative, and that magnā agrees with it. Observe that in 2 bonō animō is used in the same way as magnā auctoritāte except that it is in the predicate.

RULE — The Ablative with an adjective in agreement with it is used to express quality (Ablative of Description).

NOTE. — This ablative may have either an adjective or predicate use.

LESSON XXVIII

THE THIRD DECLENSION, GENERAL RULES FOR GENDER — IRREGULAR NOUNS

170. 1. Nouns in -ō, -ōr, -ōs, -er, -ēs (Gen. -īdis, -ītis) are masculine.

2. Nouns in -ās (Gen. -ātis), -ēs (Gen. -is) -is, -ys, -x, -s (preceded by a consonant), -dō, -gō (Gen. -īnis), -iō (abstract and collective), -ūs (Gen. -ūdis, -ūtis), are feminine.

3. Nouns in -a, -e, -i, -y, -c, -l, -t, -men (-īnis), -ar, -ur, -us (Gen. -ēris, -ōris), are neuter.

These are the general rules for gender of nouns of the Third Declension ; but there are many exceptions which should be noted as they occur.

171. In some nouns the stem in some of the cases is irregularly modified.

and Liscus into the camp. 5. Caesar will demand home-supplies because the grain in the fields is not yet ripe. 6. They assaulted the towns on the march with fresh¹ strength. 7. A supply of grain was not at hand. 8. When will you send ambassadors concerning a surrender?

LESSON XXIX

THE THIRD DECLENSION, EXCEPTIONS TO GENERAL RULES FOR GENDER—READING LESSON

174. In the following list will be found the principal exceptions to the general rules for gender, which will be needed in your work in this book. These words should be thoroughly learned.

collis, is, m., hill

dēns, dentis, m., tooth

finis, is, m., end, limit

fōns, fontis, m., fountain

īgnis, is, m., fire

īter, itineris, n., journey

lapis, idis, m., stone

mēnsis, is, m., month

mōns, montis, m., mountain ōrdō, inis, m., order, rank

pēs, pedis, m., foot

pōns, pontis, m., bridge

sanguis, inis, m., blood

sōl, sōlis, m., sun

vertex, icis, m., summit

State the rule to which each of the above is an exception.

175. Account for the gender of the following (see 25): — cōnsul, ulis, m., consul

dux, ducis, m., leader

iūdex, icis, m., judge

rēmex, igis, m., rower

senex, senis, m., old man

soror, ōris, f., sister

176. The Ablative Absolute. — Examine the following: —

Urbe captā, arma trādidērunt, after the city had been captured, they gave up their arms (lit. the city having been captured).

Observe that urbe is in the Ablative, that captā agrees with it, and that urbe captā shows the time of giving up their arms.

¹ See 173, I., 7.

RULE.—A noun or pronoun limited by a participle is often used in the construction called the Ablative Absolute to denote the time or other circumstances of the action.

NOTE.—The Ablative Absolute is often translated into English by a subordinate clause of time, cause, condition, etc.

177. Observe carefully the translation of the following sentences :—

1. Datō signō, ad mare properāvērunt, at a given signal, they hastened to the sea (lit. the signal having been given).
2. Nostris timentibus, proelium hostēs renovāvērunt, since our men were afraid, the enemy renewed the battle (our men being afraid).
3. Multis occisis, ācriter pūgnāvērunt, although many were killed, they fought fiercely (many having been killed).

178. Examine the following :—

Caesare duce, oppidum oppūgnāvērunt, under Caesar's leadership, they attacked the town (Caesar [being] leader).

RULE.—Two nouns, or a noun and an adjective, may be used together in the Ablative Absolute.

āgmen, inis, n., line of march.

Crassus, ī, m., Crassus.

culpa, ae, f., fault.

frīgus, oris, n. (sing. or pl.), cold.

pūgnō, āre, āvī, ātus, fight.

fortiter, adv., bravely.

graviter, adv., gravely, severely.

itaque, conj., and so, therefore.

EXERCISES¹

I. 1. Frūmentum quod Aeduī prōmittēbant² nōndum suppetēbat. 2. Graviter Aeduōs incūsāt quod frūmentum nōn praebeant.

² kept promising.

3. Dēditionē factā obsidēs et arma Caesarī trādēbant. 4. Caesar āgmine ēductō ad verticem montis altī properāvit. 5. Liscus dicit : "Culpa mea nōn est." 6. Ponte interscissō āgmen flūmen nōn trādūcēbat. 7. Frūmentum propter frīgora in agrīs nōndum mātūrum erat; itaque Aeduī nōn praebeant. 8. Longum iter, multis prohibentibus, per collēs et montēs faciēbat. 9. Ducentōs pedēs ā vertice eius montis erat pōns.

II. 1. Since¹ the cold was great, the grain was not yet ripe. 2. The fault is mine; therefore I shall not severely accuse you. 3. Although many were killed,¹ the rest-of-the soldiers fought fiercely. 4. The mountains were high, and so the soldiers were remaining in the fields. 5. When¹ the signal had been given, the line of march hastened to the neighboring hill. 6. In the consulship² of Crassus they took many towns by storm. 7. The soldiers say: "We will wage war bravely, if¹ Caesar is (our) leader." 8. Caesar accused the Aeduans gravely, because grain was not at hand.

READING LESSON

Frūmentum quod Aeduī Rōmānīs prōmittēbant nōn suppetēbat, itaque Caesar id cottīdiē flāgitābat; Aeduī autem dixerunt³: "Frūmentum in agrīs propter frīgora nōndum mātūrum est." Caesar principēs Aeduōrum convocāvit, in quibus Divitiacus, amīcus populī Rōmānī, et Liscus erant. Graviter eōs incūsāvit quod frūmentum nōn praeberent.⁴ Liscus autem dicit: "Nōn est mea culpa, sed Dumnorigis. Is contrā populum Rōmānum coniūrātiōnem facit.

LESSON XXX

THE THIRD CONJUGATION, THE PERFECT SYSTEM — THE ABLATIVE OF CAUSE

182. The Perfect stem of verbs of the Third Conjugation is formed in various ways. A large number is formed by adding -sī to the root : regō, rēxī (for reg-sī).

183. PERFECT	PLUPERFECT	FUTURE PERFECT
I ruled or have ruled, etc.	I had ruled, etc.	I shall have ruled, etc.

2. rēx-i-stis	rēx-erā-tis	rēx-eri-tis
3. rēx-ērunt	rēx-erā-nt	rēx-eri-nt

Compare the formation of the Perfect system of this verb with those of the two preceding conjugations. See 156 and 166.

What are the stem, tense signs, and personal endings in the above paradigm?

184. Examine the following : —

1. Militēs Caesarem liberālitāte laudant, the soldiers praise Caesar for his generosity.
2. Multis dē causis Caesar militēs laudāvit, for many reasons Caesar praised the soldiers.

Observe that liberālitāte and causis are in the Ablative, and denote cause.

RULE. — The Ablative is used with or without a preposition to denote cause.

NOTE. — The prepositions dē and ex with the Ablative and ob and propter with Accusative are used to express cause.

LESSON XXXI

ADJECTIVES OF THE THIRD DECLENSION—THE ABLATIVE OF MANNER

187. Adjectives of the Third Declension have in the Nominative singular either one, two, or three terminations.

1. Those of two or three terminations have the same number of syllables in the Nominative and Genitive singular, and are vowel stems.

2. Adjectives of three terminations end in the masculine singular in -er, feminine -is, neuter -e. They have regularly -ī in the Ablative singular, -ium in the Genitive plural, -ēs or -īs in the Accusative plural of masculines and feminines, and -ia in the Nominative, Accusative, and Vocative plural of neuters.

188. Ācer, ācris, ācre, keen, sharp, fierce

	SINGULAR			PLURAL

Ab. ferāc-ī(e)	ferāc-ī(e)	ferāc-ibus	ferāc-ibus

Compare the declension of these adjectives with that of nouns of the Third Declension. See 123.

192. Examine the following:—

1. Cum clāmōre vēnērunt, they came with a shout.
2. Māgnā celeritātē contendērunt, they hastened with great speed.
3. Māgnā cum celeritātē contendērunt, they hastened with great speed.

Observe that in 1 and 3 the Ablative with cum and in 2 the Ablative alone expresses the manner of the action.

RULE.—The manner in which an act is performed is expressed by a noun in the Ablative with cum when it has no qualifying adjective, by the Ablative with or without cum when it has a qualifying adjective.

Primā lūce nūntius ad Caesarem vēnit, quī dixit : “ Hostēs montem tenent, vidī enim arma Gallōrum.” Caesar cōpiās in proximum⁶ collem dūxit et milītēs ā proeliō prohibuit.

LESSON XXXIII

COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES—ABLATIVE WITH COMPARATIVES

201. As in English, adjectives have three degrees of comparison,—the positive, comparative, and superlative. Those regularly compared drop the stem vowel of the positive, if there is one, and add -ior, -ius to form the comparative, and -issimus, a, um, to form the superlative ; but

1. Adjectives in -er form the superlative by adding -rimus to the Nominative.

2. Six adjectives in -lis (facilis, easy; difficilis, difficult; similis, like; dissimilis, unlike; gracilis, graceful; humilis, humble) form the superlative by adding -limus to the stem after its final vowel has been dropped.

² sē, himself.

³ quae, inter. pron. neut., plur., what.

⁴ reprehenderet, third pers. sing. Imperf. Subj., he blamed.

202. POSITIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
dēnsus (dēnsō)	dēnsior	dēnsissimus
fortis (forti-)	fortior	fortissimus
ācer (ācri)	ācrior	ācerrimus
similis (simili)	similior	simillimus

Compare : altus, brevis, difficilis, liber, potēns, vāstus, laetus, parātus.

203. Declension of Comparatives.

SINGULAR		PLURAL
Masc. and Fem.	Neut.	Masc. and Fem.	Neut.
N.V. fortior	fortius	fortiōr-ēs	fortiōr-a
G. fortiōr-is	fortiōr-is	fortiōr-um	fortiōr-um
D. fortiōr-ī	fortiōr-ī	fortiōr-ibus	fortiōr-ibus
Ac. fortiōr-em	fortius	fortiōr-ēs (īs)	fortiōr-a
Ab. fortiōr-e(ī)	fortiōr-e(ī)	fortiōr-ibus	fortiōr-ibus

All superlatives are declined like fidus, a, um.

204. Examine the following :

1. Honor hominibus cārior vitā est, honor is dearer to men than life.
2. Honor hominibus cārior est quam vitā, honor is dearer to men than life.

In 1 vitā is in the Ablative case after the comparative cārior :
in 2 vitā is in the Nominative case after cārior with quam, than.

RULE. — The Ablative is used after the comparative when quam is omitted ; but when it is expressed the same case follows as precedes.

NOTE. — Quam may be used with any case preceding ; it need not be used after the Nominative or Accusative ; it must be used after the other cases.

205. Examine the following :

1. Puer erat audācior, the boy was rather bold (or too bold).
2. Vir fortissimus erat Caesar, Caesar was a very brave man.

- RULES. — 1. The comparative is sometimes used to express a rather high or too high a degree of the quality.
2. The superlative is often used to express, not the highest, but a very high degree of the quality.

2. fu-i-stis	fu-erā-tis	fu-eri-tis
3. fu-ērunt	fu-erā-nt	fu-eri-nt

Observe points of resemblance to verbs of the regular conjugations.

209. Possum, I am able, I can, is compounded of pot- (potis or pote) and sum.

Possum, posse, potui

2. pot-uistis	pot-uerātis	pot-ueritis
3. pot-uērunt	pot-uerant	pot-uerint

210. The Perfect potuī is used for pot-fuī. Compare this paradigm with that of sum. Note the change of t to s before s, and the dropping of f after t.

211. The use of the Infinitive with verbs denoting to be able, dare, undertake, hesitate, and the like, which imply a second act of the same subject is called the Complementary Infinitive. Some examples of this usage have already been given. It is exactly in accord with the English usage.

212. The Fifth Declension. — The stem ends in ē.

Ac. diem	diēs	rem	rēs	em	ēs
Ab. diē	diēbus	rē	rēbus	ē	ēbus

213. Diēs and rēs are the only nouns of the Fifth Declension that are declined throughout. The others are declined in the singular, and a few are found also in the Nominative and Accusative plural.

Observe that ē is long in the Genitive and Dative singular of diēs, and short in rēs. The ē of the stem is shortened in the Genitive and Dative singular when it is preceded by a consonant.

214. Gender.— Nouns of the Fifth Declension are feminine with the exception of diēs, which is always masculine in the plural, and generally in the singular, except where it refers to some specified time.

LESSON XXXV

THE FIRST CONJUGATION, PASSIVE VOICE—THE ABLATIVE OF MEANS

218. The passive voice in the Latin corresponds in general to the passive in English.

219. The principal parts of a verb in the passive voice are the first person singular of the Pres. Ind., the Pres. Inf., and the first person singular of the Perf. Ind.: vocor, vocārī, vocātus sum.

	3. vocā-t-ī sunt	vocā-t-ī erant	vocā-t-ī erunt

221. Observe that the tense signs in the Present, Imperfect, and Future are the same as in the active voice, and that the Perfect, Pluperfect, and Future Perfect are formed by combining the Perfect passive participle with the Present, Imperfect, and Future of sum.

222. In the preceding paradigm the participle has, for convenience, been given in the masculine only; but it is declined like fīdus, and must agree with the subject in gender, number, and case.

223. Notice the change of the tense sign bi in the Future to b in the first person singular, be in the second person singular, and bu in the third person plural.

Inflect armō and expectō in the passive voice.

224. Examine the following:—

1. Tēlis agricolās armant, they arm the farmers with weapons.
2. Pilō miles pūgnāverat, the soldier had fought with a javelin.

Tēlis and pilō are in the Ablative case, and denote the means or instrument of an action.

RULE.—The means or instrument of an action is expressed by the Ablative case without a preposition.

LESSON XXXVI

PREPOSITIONS — THE ABLATIVE OF THE AGENT

228. Prepositions in Latin are properly used with but two cases, the Accusative and the Ablative.

Some govern the Accusative only, some the Ablative only, and some the Accusative or Ablative with a difference of meaning.

229. Examine the following: —

1. Ab urbe properāvit, he hastened from the city.
2. Ex urbe properāvit, he hastened out of the city.
3. In urbem vēnit, he came into the city.
4. In urbe manēbat, he remained in the city.
5. Sub pontem vēnit, he came under the bridge.
6. Sub ponte manēbat, he remained under the bridge.

¹ the back of an enemy, lit. an enemy turned away. ² one of his sons. ³ one hundred and thirty thousand men. ⁴ the Lingones. ⁵ which: quōs agrees with vīcōs, its nearest antecedent, but belongs in thought to oppida also.

RULES. — 1. Ab is used where motion away from a place is indicated.

2. Ex is used where motion out of a place is indicated.

3. In and sub govern the Accusative with verbs of motion, the Ablative with verbs of rest.

NOTE. — You have already learned many of the prepositions, together with the cases governed by them. Note those given above as governing either the Accusative or Ablative. Recall those governing the Ablative only, and add to them prō, for, before, in behalf of, and cōram, in the presence of; you will then have learned the most important ones governing the Ablative. All others given in this book govern the Accusative.

230. Examine the following: —

Militēs ā Caesare convocātī sunt, the soldiers were called together by Caesar.

Observe the use of ā with Caesare to express the agent of the action.

RULE. — The voluntary agent of an action is expressed by ā or ab with the Ablative case.

Notice the one point of difference between this usage and the Ablative of means or instrument. See 224.

LESSON XXXVII

IRREGULAR COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES

234. Some adjectives are irregularly compared. The following is a list of the most important : —

POSITIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
bonus , good	melior , better	optimus , ¹ best māgnus , large, great	māior , ² larger, greater	māximus , largest, greatest
malus , bad	pēior , worse	pessimus , ³ worst
multus , much	plūs , more	plūrimus , most
parvus , small	minor , smaller, less	minimus , smallest, least

235.⁴ Some comparatives and superlatives are formed from prepositions or adverbs and have no real positive.

cis , citrā , prep., on this side	citerior , hither	citimus , hithermost
in , intrā , prep., within	interior , inner	intimus , inmost
prae , prō , prep., before	prior , former	prīmus , first prope , adv., near	propior , nearer	proximus , nearest, next
ultrā , adv., beyond	ulterior , farther	ultimus , farthest

236.⁴ The positive forms of the following seldom occur.

(exterus)	exterior , outer	extrēmus , outmost
(īferus)	īnferior , lower	īnīmus , lowest
(posterus)	posterior , latter	postrēmus , last
(superus)	superior , higher	suprēmus or summus , highest

237. Examine the following : —

³ Associate with this pessimist.

⁴ The teacher should use his judgment as to how many of these should be required.

RULE. — Adjectives of order and succession, including superlatives and some comparatives, denote what part of an object is meant.

238. From senex, old man, and iuvenis, young man, come the comparatives senior, elder, and iūnior, younger.

239.VOCABULARY

PRONOMINAL ADJECTIVES — REVIEW OF COMPARISON

247. Ūllus, any

SINGULAR

	Masc.	Fem.	Neut.
N.	ūllus	ūlla	ūllum
G.	ūllius	ūllius	ūllius
D.	ūllī	ūllī	ūllī
Ac.	ūllum	ūllam	ūllum
Ab.	ūllō	ūllā	ūllō

SINGULAR

	Masc.	Fem.	Neut.
	uter	utra	utrum
	utrius	utrius	utrius

	utrum	utram	utrum
	utrō	utrā	utrō

248. In the plural these adjectives are declined like fīdus and pulcher, respectively. Observe that the Genitive singular of all genders ends in -ius, that the Dative singular ends in -ī, and that in all other points these adjectives correspond to other o- and a- stems. Note the exception in quantity in -ius. Review the comparison of adjectives, Lessons XXXIII and XXXVII. Learn the following list of adjectives declined as above : — alius, a, ud, another tōtus, a, um, whole alter, era, erum, the other nūllus, a, um, no, no one ūllus, a, um, any neuter, tra, trum, neither sōlus, a, um, alone, only ūnus, a, um, one uter, tra, trum, which (of two)

Observe the peculiar form of the neuter in alius.

trīstis, e, sad.

omnīnō, adv., at all, all together.

cōnsuēscō, ere, suēvī, suētus, be accustomed.

250. Notice the difference between alius . . . alius and alter . . . alter.

251. Examine the following:—

Alius aliam in partem properāvit, one hastened in one direction, another in another.

RULE.—Alius and alter repeated in another case express briefly a double statement.

252.

EXERCISES

I. 1. Alii bellum ācriter gessērunt, alii salūtem fugā petiērunt.
2. Alterī gladium dedit, alterī scūtum. 3. Neutrius fortūna erat bona. 4. Sēquanī sōli nihil respondērunt, sed tristēs in conloquiō manēbant. 5. Fortūna Sēquanōrum erat gravior quam reliquōrum.¹ 6. Spīritus Ariovistī erat māgnus, adrogantia autem māior.
7. Germānī suās cōpiās trāns Rhēnum dūcere cōsuēscunt, et in Galliam venīre. 8. Aliās in partēs Galliae venīre cōstituō, aliās autem in partēs venīre nōn possum. 9. Alius aliud² respondit.

READING LESSON

Sēquanī in conloquiō nihil respondērunt, sed trīstēs manēbant. Divitiacus autem prō iīs respondit : “ Fortūna Sēquanōrum est gravior reliquōrum, quod Ariovistus in eōrum finēs suās cōpiās intrōdūxit et omnia eōrum oppida occupāvit. Quā dē causā eīus adrogantia spīritusque māgnus¹ erat.” Multis dē causis Caesar lēgātōs ad eum dē conloquiō mittere cōstituit, quibus lēgātīs Ariovistus respondit : “ Ad Caesarem nōn veniam, nam² neque sine māgnō exercitū in eās partēs Galliae, quas Caesar occupāvit, venīre audeō,³ neque exercitum sine māgnō commeātū et negōtiō in ūnum locum contrahere⁴ possum.

LESSON XL

FORMATION AND COMPARISON OF ADVERBS

254. Formation of Adverbs.—Examine the following : —

ADJECTIVE	ADVERB
1. cārus (cāro-), dear	cārē , dearly
pulcher (pulchro-), beautiful	pulchrē , beautifully

Observe that adverbs are formed from adjectives of the first and second declension by changing -o of the stem to -ē.

2. ācer (ācri-), sharp	ācriter , sharply lēnis (lēni-), smooth	lēniter , smoothly
prūdēns (prūdent-), prudent	prūdentē , prudently

Observe that adverbs are formed from adjectives of the third declension by adding -ter to the stem. Stems in -nt drop -t before -ter.

3. multus , much	multum , much
subitus , sudden	subitō , suddenly
facilis , easy	facile , easily

Sometimes the neuter Accusative singular is used as an adverb: multum, facile; sometimes the neuter Ablative singular: subitō.

255. The comparative of the adverb is the same as the neuter comparative of the adjective. The superlative is formed by changing the final -o of the stem of the adjective in the superlative to -ē.

256. Learn the following: —

POSITIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
ācriter	ācrius	ācerimē
cārē	cārius	cārissimē
facile	facilius	facillimē
prūdentē	prūdentius	prūdentissimē
pulchrē	pulchrius	pulcherrimē

257. If the adjective is compared irregularly, the same irregularities will occur in the comparison of the adverb.

258. Learn the following, and review the comparison of adjectives, Lesson XXXVII.

bene, well	melius, better	optimē, best male, ill	pēius, worse	pessimē, worst —	magis, more	māximē, most, especially multum, much	plūs, more	plūrimum, most parum, not enough	minus, less	minimē, least

Note resemblances to the adjectives compared in 234.

VOCABULARY

haedus, ī, m., kid.	timidus, a, um, timid.
mandātum, ī, n., command, instructions.	maledicō, ere, dixī, dictus, revile, rail at (with Dat.).
respōnsum, ī, n., reply, response.	reddō, ere, didī, ditus, render, return, give back.
tēctum, ī, n., roof.	iterum, adv., again, a second time.
vectīgal, ālis, n., tax, revenue.
dēterior, ius, adj. in comp., worse, of less value.

EXERCISES

I. 1. Caesar Ariovistō vectīgālia dēteriōra fēcit. 2. Haedus, quī in tēctō domūs erat, lupō māximē maledixit. 3. Locus et tempus hominēs timidōs audācēs reddit.¹ 4. Eīs respōnsīs audītis iterum oppida hostium audācius oppūgnāvērunt. 5. Ariovistus obsidēs, quōs ab Aeduīs habuit, nōn reddidit. 6. Equīs ēmissīs ācerimē cum hostibus equitēs contendēbant. 7. Germānī multō ācrius quam finitimī cum hostibus contendunt quod eīs virēs corporis māiōrēs sunt. 8. Oppidum facillimē dēlētum est quod incolae nōn fortiter dēfendērunt.

II. 1. He will very easily make the revenues of Ariovistus of less value. 2. When these commands had again been given (Abl. Abs.), he suddenly fled with the greatest swiftness to the river. 3. To praise is better² than to revile. 4. He acts more prudently than his friend, because he fears no one. 5. Kids are very timid, but time and place very often render them bold. 6. The supplies from home were not large, therefore they demanded ripe grain. 7. On account of the cold they came together and hastened into winter quarters beyond the river. 8. We arrived easily on that day in the territory of the Germans.

READING LESSON³: Haedus et Lupus

Haedus stāns⁴ in tēctō domūs, lupō praetereuntī⁵ maledixit. Cuī⁶ lupus, "Nōn tū," inquit, "sed tēctum mihi⁷ maledicit."

Saepe locus et tempus hominēs timidōs audācēs reddit.

¹ The singular is used because the two subjects are so closely associated in thought as to form one idea.

² Use neut. sing. comp. of bonus.

⁶ To him, lit. to whom.

⁷ mihi, Dat. sing. of pers. pron., to me. Translate by me simply.

	2. rēc-t-ī estis	rēc-t-ī erātis	rēc-t-ī eritis
	3. rēc-t-ī sunt	rēc-t-ī erant	rēc-t-ī erunt

For changes in the stem vowel, see 128. Notice the formation of the Present Infinitive passive in this conjugation.

263. Examine the following :—

1. Militēs pūgnant fortiter, the soldiers fight bravely.
2. Dicit militēs pūgnāre fortiter, he says that the soldiers fight bravely.
3. Dux castra movet, the leader moves the camp.
4. Videt ducem castra movēre, he sees that the leader is moving the camp.
5. Vidit ducem castra movēre, he saw that the leader was moving the camp.

RULE. — Statements after verbs and other expressions of saying, thinking, perceiving and the like are expressed by the Infinitive with a subject in the Accusative.

Observe in 5 the change in tense in the English translation of movēre after a verb of past time in the Latin.

NOTE. — The subject of the indirect discourse will be more fully discussed later.

II. 1. He was (being) sent to Caesar with these commands. 2. It is necessary to send hostages to Caesar. 3. Ariovistus replies that the Romans are his enemies. 4. Do you not see that ¹ The forms built on the Perfect stem correspond in time to those built on the Present stem in other verbs.

³ with injustice, unjustly.

Caesar is doing a great injury to Ariovistus? 5. War will be waged by these states because hostages have not been given by their enemies. 6. The allies of the Roman people were provoked by the injustice of Ariovistus. 7. He says that the Aedui are beginning to assault the towns of the enemy on the march. 8. Nothing will be found in these barren places. 9. The Aedui will be annoyed by war because they will not give hostages. 10. He said that Caesar was doing a great injury.

266.

READING LESSON

His respōnsis ad Caesarem relātis,¹ iterum ad Ariovistum lēgātōs cum iis mandātis mīsit. "Necesse est tibi² obsidēs quos ab Aeduīs habēs reddere, neque Aeduōs neque eōrum sociōs iniūriā³ lacessere." Ad haec⁴ Ariovistus respondit Aeduōs, bellō superātōs, sibi⁵ stīpendiārīōs⁶ esse. Caesarem māgnam iniūriam facere, quī adventū suō vectigālīa sibi dēteriōra faceret.⁷ Sē obsidēs Aeduīs redditūrum⁸ nōn esse, sed cum Germānīs parātum esse bellum fortiter gerere.

LESSON XLII

REVIEW OF CARDINALS AND ORDINALS—ABLATIVE OF DEGREE OF DIFFERENCE

267. Make a careful review of Lessons XXIII and XXVI.

Examine the following:—

1. Puer multō māior est quam soror, the boy is much larger than his sister (larger by much).
2. Mare multis pedibus altius est quam flūmen, the sea is many feet deeper than the river (deeper by many feet).

¹ Abl. Abs., When this answer was brought back. ² for you. ³ See 265, n. 3. ⁴ these things. ⁵ to him. ⁶ tributary, adj. agreeing with Aeduōs. ⁷ Impf. Subj. of faciō. Translate, was making. ⁸ Fut. Inf. in indirect discourse with subject Acc. sē . . ., that he would not return.

Multō and multis pedibus are each in the Ablative, and express the degree of difference between two persons or things.

RULE. — The Ablative is used without a preposition to express the degree of difference between two persons or things.

VOCABULARY

contentiō, ōnis, f., contention, quarrel, exertion.	dēfatīgō, āre, āvī, ātus, weary, exhausted.

The enemy will have been overcome by Caesar within three hours. 7. The mountains were much higher than the hills. 8. The house is many feet higher than the wall.

READING LESSON: Acerbae Ūvae

Vulpēs ūvam in vīte cōspicāta¹ ad illam² subsiluit omnium vīrium contentiōne, sī³ eam forte attingere posset. Tandem dē-fatīgāta inānī labōre discēdēns dixit: "At⁴ nunc etiam acerbae sunt, nec⁵ eās in viā repertās tollerem."⁵

Haec fābula docet multōs ea contemnere⁶ quae sē adsequi posse dēspērent.⁷

LESSON XLIII

PERSONAL AND REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS

271. Pronouns are divided into the following classes: personal, reflexive, possessive, demonstrative, intensive, relative, interrogative, and indefinite.

Personal pronouns correspond to the English personals, and are declined as follows: —

272. FIRST PERSON

	SING.	PLUR.
N.	ego	nōs
G.	meī	nostrum, nostrī
D.	mihi	nōbīs
Ac.	mē	nōs
Ab.	mē	nōbīs

SECOND PERSON

	SING.	PLUR.
	tū	vōs
	tuī	vestrum, vestrī
	tibi	vōbīs
	tē	vōs
	tē	vōbīs

273. The personal pronoun of the third person is lacking. Its place is supplied by the demonstratives, more usually by is.

274. The Reflexive.

SINGULAR AND PLURAL

G.	suī, of himself, herself, itself, themselves.
D.	sibi, to or for himself, herself, itself, themselves.
Ac.	sē, sēsē, himself, herself, itself, themselves.
Ab.	sē, sēsē, from, by, with himself, herself, itself, themselves.

¹ having seen. ² it. ³ sī . . . posset, to see if it could. ⁴ but. ⁵ and I would not pick up. ⁶ that many despise, ind. disc. ⁷ which they despair of being able to obtain.

275. Observe carefully the following points in the use of these pronouns.

1. The Nominative of the personals is not expressed except for emphasis : ego sum miser, tū es laetus, I am wretched, but you are happy.

2. The personals of the first and second persons are often used in a reflexive sense : ego mē culpō, I blame myself; tū tē laudās, you praise yourself.

3. When reference is made in the oblique cases to the subject of a sentence, the reflexive sui, etc., is used for the third person : miles sē occīdit, the soldier killed himself; miles eum occīdit, the soldier killed him.

4. When the preposition cum is used with the personal and reflexive pronouns, it is always an enclitic. With the relative or interrogative it may or may not be an enclitic : mēcum, with me; sēcum, with him (himself); quibuscum or cum quibus, with whom.

276.VOCABULARY

facultās, ātis, f., opportunity, supply.	prōcēdō, ere, cessī, cessus, proceed, advance.
Harūdēs, um, m. pl., the Harūdes.
ūsus, ūs, m., use, need, experience.	redimō, ere, ēmī, ēmptus, purchase.

Dīxit centum pāgōs Germānōrum ad rīpās Rhēnī esse. 4. Postquam viam trīduī prōcessit, id Caesarī nūntiātum est. 5. Omnium eārum rērum māgna facultās Vesontiōne¹ erat. 6. Hae rēs ūsuī ad bellum erant. 7. Hūc Caesar māgnīs itineribus contendit, occupātōque oppidō, ibi praesidium dispōnit. 8. Celeriter omnibus hostibus victīs, in hīberna exercitum redūxit.

II. 1. Two brothers were in command of² a hundred districts of the Germans. 2. Caesar and Ariovistus also were hastening by forced marches towards Vesontio, which is the largest town of the Sequani. 3. The Germans had recently brought over a large number of their forces into the territory of the Aedui. 4. Ariovistus had proceeded a march³ of three days from his own⁴ territory. 5. Therefore Caesar decided to hasten to the town. 6. In this town were many things which were of use for war. 7. A great supply of all these things was in Vesontio. 8. We can purchase all these things, and transport them on carts to the camp.

READING LESSON

Aeduī ad Caesarem veniēbant quod Harūdēs eōrum finēs vāstābant. Lēgātī dixerunt: "Obsidibus datīs pācem Ariovistī redimere nōn possumus." Trēverī⁵ quoque veniēbant, quod Germānōrum centum pāgī ad rīpās Rhēnī erant, quibus duo frātrēs praeerant. Eā dē causā Caesar contendere ad Ariovistum māgnīs itineribus cōstituit. Ariovistus autem Vesontiōnem, quod⁶ est māximum oppidum Sēquanōrum, occupāre mātūrābat. Itaque Caesar iter āvertit ad id oppidum; nam Vesontiōne¹ omnium rērum, quae ūsuī ad bellum erant, māgna facultās erat. Caesar id oppidum occupāvit et ibi praesidium disposuit.

⁴ his own, suus. ⁵ The Treveri, a tribe of Gaul. ⁶ quod, relative pronoun in the neuter to agree with the predicate noun oppidum.

LESSON XLV

THE DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS—THE DATIVE WITH ADJECTIVES

285. The demonstratives are hic, this; is, this or that; ille, that; iste, that; idem, the same; and ipse, self, which is intensive. Is has already been declined (see 136); idem is the demonstrative is with the emphatic suffix -dem. Its first part only is inflected. Ipsē alone has a Vocative.

287. Iste is declined like ipse, except that it lacks the Vocative. Note the resemblance in the Genitive and Dative singular to the pronominal adjectives, ūnus, etc. See 247.

Observe the change of m to n before d in forms of īdem.

288. Hic is used of that which is near the speaker ; the demonstrative of the first person.

Iste is used of that near the person spoken to ; the demonstrative of the second person.

Ille is used of that remote from the speaker ; the demonstrative of the third person. It often means that well-known or famous person or thing.

Hic often means the latter (nearer the speaker) ; ille, the former (more remote from the speaker).

The demonstratives have both an adjective and a substantive use. Ipse is used with the personals, alone, or with a noun.

289. Examine the following : —

1. Locus castris idōneus erat, the place was suitable for a camp.
2. Puer frātrī similis erat, the boy was like his brother.
3. Nihil Caesarī difficile erat, nothing was difficult for Caesar.

RULE.—The Dative is used with adjectives denoting resemblance, fitness, nearness, and the like, with their opposites.

NOTE.—Adjectives of fitness may take an Accusative with ad.

1. For resemblance to verbs of the Fourth Conjugation, see 280.
Inflect, as above, interficior.

294. Examine the following : —

1. Orgetorix Helvētiis persuāsit, Orgetorix persuaded the Helvetians.
2. Caesar hostibus parcit, Caesar spares the enemy.

Observe the meaning of these verbs, and notice that they are used with the Dative.

RULE. — Some verbs, intransitive in Latin, though apparently transitive, are followed by a Dative of the indirect object. Such are verbs denoting to favor, help, please, trust, and their contraries; also to obey, serve, resist, envy, threaten, pardon, and spare.

297. READING LESSON: Vulpēs et Leō

Vulpēs videt leōnem rētibz captum, et, stāns¹ prope, lūdificāvit eum insolenter. Leō autem, "Nōn tū," inquit, "mē lūdificās, sed malum² quod in mē incidit."

LESSON XLVII

POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS — PARTITIVE GENITIVE — INDIRECT DISCOURSE (Continued)

298. The possessive pronouns are strictly adjectives formed from the personal and reflexive stems. They are declined like adjectives of the first and second declensions. They are: — meus, a, um, mine

tuus, a, um, your, yours suus, a, um, his, her, its, their noster, tra, trum, our, ours

vester, tra, trum, your, yours

1. The Vocative of meus in the masculine singular is usually mī.
2. The gender, number, and case of these pronouns are determined by the thing possessed.

299. Examine the following: —

1. Ūna pars montis, one part of the mountain.

2. Alter militum, one of the (two) soldiers.

² Subject of lūdificat understood.

3. Tantum spatī, so much (of) space.
4. Satis pābulī, enough (of) fodder.

Observe in the above that pars, alter, tantum, satis denote a part taken from the whole expressed by montis, militum, spatī, pābulī. Observe the kind of words used to express the part.

RULE. — Words denoting a part are used with a Genitive of the whole to which the part belongs.

1. Partitive words are nouns, pronouns, and adjectives and adverbs used substantively.

300. Examine the following : —

1. Ūnus ex militibus, one of the soldiers.
2. Quīdam dē nostrīs, certain of our men.
3. Prīmus omnium, the first of all.

Observe the use of ex and dē with ūnus and quīdam, and of the Genitive with prīmus.

RULE. — Cardinal numerals and quīdam generally take the Ablative with ex or dē to express the whole of which a part is taken ; the ordinals generally take the Partitive Genitive.

301. There are in each voice three tenses of the Infinitive, the Present, the Perfect, and the Future.

	Active
PRESENT	PERFECT	FUTURE
1. vocā-re , to call	vocāv-isse , to have called	vocā-tūr-us esse , to be about to call
2. monē-re	monu-isse	moni-tūr-us esse
3. rege-re	rēx-isse	rēc-tūr-us esse
3. cape-re	cēp-isse	cap-tūr-us esse
4. audī-re	audīv-isse	audī-tūr-us esse
es-se	fu-isse	fu-tūr-us esse

303.

Passive

PRESENT	PERFECT	FUTURE
1. vocā-rī , to be called	vocā-t-us ¹ esse , to have been called	vocā-t-um irī , ² to be about to be called
2. monē-rī	moni-t-us esse	moni-t-um irī
3. reg-ī	rēc-t-us esse	rēc-t-um irī
3. cap-ī	cap-t-us esse	cap-t-um irī
4. audī-rī	audī-t-us esse	audī-t-um irī

304. Examine the following : —

1. Dīcit tē venīre, he says that you are coming.
2. Dīxit tē venīre, he said that you were coming.
3. Dīcit tē vēnisse, he says that you came (have come).
4. Dīxit tē vēnisse, he said that you came (had come).
5. Dīcit tē ventūrum esse, he says that you will come.
6. Dīxit tē ventūrum esse, he said that you would come.

Observe that venīre denotes time present with reference to the verb on which it depends, vēnisse time past, and ventūrum esse time future in the same way.

RULE. — The Infinitive expresses time relative to that of the verb upon which it depends.

VOCABULARY

columba , ae, f., dove.	iūstus , a, um, just.
formīca , ae, f., ant.	accēdō , ere, cessī, cessus, draw near, approach.

LESSON XLVIII

COMPOUNDS OF Sum — DATIVE WITH COMPOUNDS

308. Sum is compounded without any change with the prepositions ab, ad, dē, in, inter, ob, prae, prō (prōd), sub, and super. In the compound prōsum, I help, the original d of prōd is retained before e.

309. Prōsum, I help

Princ. Parts, prōsum, prōdesse, prōfui

SINGULAR	PRESENT	PLURAL
1. prō-sum , I help		1. prō-sumus , we help
2. prōd-es , you help		2. prōd-estis , you help
3. prōd-est , he helps		3. prō-sunt , they help

FUTURE	prōd-erō , etc., I shall help , etc.
PERFECT	prō-fui , etc., I helped or have helped , etc.
PLUPERFECT	prō-fueram , etc., I had helped , etc.
FUTURE PERFECT	prō-fuerō , etc., I shall have helped , etc.

310. Examine the following : —

1. Lābiēnus eī oppidō praefuit, Labienus was in command of that town.
2. Caesar Aeduīs saepe adfuerat, Caesar had often assisted the Aedui.
3. Amīcus amīcō nōn deerit, a friend will not fail his friend.
4. Caesar omnibus eōrum cōnsiliis obstitit, Caesar opposed all their plans.

Observe that the verbs in the above are compounded with prae, ad, dē, and ob, and that they are used with the Dative.

RULE. — Most verbs compounded with ad, ante, con, in, inter, ob, post, prae, prō, sub, and super, and some with circum, are used with the Dative case.

II. 1. The bird-catcher was bitten by an ant, because he had decided to catch a dove. 2. The dove had cast a twig into the water where the ant had been nearly drowned. 3. The ant climbed upon the twig and was not drowned. 4. After the ant had bitten the foot of the bird-catcher, he suffered from the sting and freed the dove. 5. "Gaul is my province," said Ariovistus. 6. Ariovistus said that Gaul was his province. 7. "I shall never be lacking to my friends," says he, "but shall always assist (them)." 8. Within three days he will have helped all his friends. 9. He said that the ant cast a twig into the water.

313. READING LESSON : Formīca et Columba

Formīca quaedam¹ sitiēns² dēscendit ad fontem ; sed flūmine correpta³ paene est submersa. Columba autem, hōc vidēns,⁴ virgulam dēcerpsit et in aquam iniēcit ; super quam formīca ascendēns, sēsē servāvit. Tum forte auceps, harundinibus conlētīs, proficīscitur⁵ ad⁶ columbam capiendam. Quod vidēns,⁴ formīca pedem aucipis momordit ; et ille, punctū dolēns,⁷ harundinibus abiectīs, columbam liberāvit.

LESSON XLIX

DEPONENT VERBS—THE ABLATIVE WITH CERTAIN DEPONENTS

314. Deponent verbs have for the most part passive forms with active meanings. They have the participles of both voices. The Perfect participle has sometimes a passive sense.

315. PRINCIPAL PARTS

PRESENT (1st Singular)	PRESENT INFINITIVE	PERFECT TENSE
1. cōn-o-r, I attempt	cōnā-rī	cōnā-t-us sum
2. pollice-o-r, I promise	pollicē-rī	pollici-t-us sum
3. ūt-o-r, I use, enjoy	ūt-ī	ū-s-us sum
3. pati-o-r, I suffer, allow	pat-ī	pas-s-us sum
4. potī-o-r, I become master of	potī-rī	potī-t-us sum

Observe that the forms of these verbs are built in the same way as the passive voice of other verbs of the corresponding conjugations.

¹ a certain. ² being thirsty, Pres. part. of sitiō. ³ correpta agrees with the subject of submersa est, a pronoun implied in the ending and referring to formīca. ⁴ seeing. ⁵ sets out. ⁶ to catch the dove, a construction which will be explained later. ⁷ suffering.

316. Examine the following : —

1. Armīs ūtitur, he uses arms.
2. Prōvinciā potitur, he becomes master of the province.

Observe that the verbs in the above take the Ablative when in the corresponding English sentences a direct object is used.

RULE. — Certain deponents, with their compounds, take the Ablative. These verbs are :—

ūtor, ūtī, ūsus sum, use, enjoy fruor, fruī, fructus sum, enjoy fungor, fungī, fūctus sum, perform potior, potīrī, potītus sum, become master of vescor, vescī, —, eat

SEMI-DEPONENTS—REVIEW OF PASSIVE—WORD LIST

320. Some verbs have the forms from the Present stem active, the rest passive. These are called Semi-Deponents.

Learn thoroughly the following list : —

PRESENT INDICATIVE	PRESENT INFINITIVE	PERFECT INDICATIVE
2. audeō , dare	audēre	ausus sum
2. gaudeō , rejoice	gaudēre	gāvīsus sum
2. soleō , be wont	solēre	solitus sum
3. fidō , trust	fidere	fiſus sum

Note the irregularity in form of the Perfect participle of gaudeō. Inflect audeō and fidō in the Indicative, and review the passive of all the conjugations.

LESSON LI

THE PARTICIPLE

325. There are four participles in Latin, — two in the active voice, the Present and the Future, and two in the passive, the Perfect and the Gerundive.

326. The Present participle ends in -ns, and has regularly the same meaning as the English participle in -ing: vocā-ns, calling. It is inflected like an adjective of the Third Declension with one termination.

327. The Future active participle ends in -ūrus, and is regularly used to express something about to happen: vocā-tūr-us, about to call. It is often joined to the verb sum to form the First Periphrastic Conjugation, which will be explained later. It is inflected like fīdus, a, um.

328. The Gerundive (sometimes called the Future passive participle) ends in -ndus, and is very often used to express necessity or obligation: voca-ndus, to be called. It is often joined to the verb sum to form the Second Periphrastic Conjugation, which will be explained later. It is inflected like fīdus, a, um.

329. The Perfect participle ends in -tus, -sus, and has two distinct uses.

1. It is often equivalent to the English Perfect passive participle in -ed: mūnī-t-us, fortified.

2. It is joined to the verb sum to form certain tenses of the passive: vocā-t-us sum, I have been called.

330. The participles may all be used as adjectives, and the Present and Perfect as substantives.

1. Note that there is no Present passive or Perfect active participle in Latin.

331. TABLE OF PARTICIPLES

	Active		Passive
	PRESENT	FUTURE	PERFECT	GERUNDIVE (Fut.)
1.	vocā-ns	vocā-tūr-us	vocā-t-us	voca-ndus
2.	monē-ns	moni-tūr-us	moni-t-us	mone-ndus
3.	regē-ns	rēc-tūr-us	rēc-t-us	rege-ndus
3.	capiē-ns	cap-tūr-us	cap-t-us	capie-ndus
4.	audiē-ns	audī-tūr-us	audī-t-us	audie-ndus
		fu-tūr-us

1. Observe carefully the similarity of formation in the Present and the Gerundive on the one hand, and the Future and the Perfect on the other.

Make a table of the participles of laudō, terreō, dūcō, faciō, and mūniō.

332. Examine the following :

1. Caesar virum vidēns laetus erat, Caesar was glad upon seeing the man.
2. Permōtus frūmentī inopiā Caesar in Ītaliā vēnit, alarmed by the lack of grain, Caesar came into Italy.

Observe that the Latin usage is the same as the English.

333. VOCABULARY

catēna, ae, f., chain.

hospitium, ī, n., friendship.

lingua, ae, f., tongue, language.

vulgus,¹ ī, n., common people, crowd.

adequitō, āre, āvī, ātus, ride toward.

conclāmō, āre, āvī, ātus, cry out.

LESSON LII

WORD FORMATION

NOTE. — It has been thought best to insert at this point two lessons upon Word Formation and Word Grouping. These lessons are not to be learned verbatim, but should be carefully read and frequently referred to in the preparation of the succeeding lessons.

The aim has not been to make an exhaustive treatment of the subject, but to present a few essential facts in a very simple manner, in the hope that the pupil, recognizing the fact that the Latin and the English are sister languages, and that both have been built up gradually and systematically, may form habits of observation in word study which will not only enliven his work in Latin, but help him to appreciate his own language better.

336. A Root is the essential part of a word unmodified by the addition of formative elements.

337. A Stem is that part of a word to which the inflectional endings are added: son-, root; sono-, stem; sonus,¹ a noise.

338. Examine carefully the following groups of words: —

ag-ō , do	āc-tor , one who does	āc-tiō , a doing
dēfend-ō , defend	dēfēn-sor , one who defends	dēfēn-siō , a defending

1. Observe that the ending -tor (-sor) denotes the agent, and that -tiō (-siō) is used in forming abstracts. Note also the change in the final letter of the root ag before t, and the dropping of d before s.

scribō , write	scrip-tor , —?	scrip-tiō , —?

¹ The final letter of the stem is often so changed by its contact with the inflectional endings as not to be evident without careful analysis.

339.	ag-ō , lead	āg-men , line of march flu-ō , flow	flū-men , river move-ō , move	mō-men-tum , movement
	mone-ō , remind	monu-men-tum , reminder

1. Observe that the endings -men, -mentum, denote acts, or the means or results of acts.

340.	arm-ō , arm	armā-tūra , armor, armed troops
	scrib-ō , write	scrip-tūra , a writing
341.	ar-ō , plow	arā-trum , that which plows, a plow
	voc-ō , call	vocā-bulum , that by which one is called, a name
	gubern-ō , guide	gubernā-culum , that which guides, a helm

1. Observe that the endings -trum, -bulum, -culum, denote the means or instrument of an action.

From the meaning of the endings -tor, -tiō in 338, 1, tell the meaning of the following words: — arā-tor, arā-tiō; gubernā-tor, gubernā-tiō; vocā-tor, vocā-tiō.

342.	lae-tus , glad	laeti-tia , gladness levis , light	levi-tās , lightness, fickleness
	māgnus , great	māgni-tūdō , greatness, size
	servus , slave	servi-tūs , slavery

1. Observe that the endings -tia, -tās, -tūdō, -tūs are added to noun and adjective stems to form abstracts. Note change in stem vowel.

343. The following words will give corresponding forms: — iūstus , just	——? justice vērus , true	——? truth

lātus , broad	——? breadth
vir , man	——? manhood, courage

344.	filius , son	fili-olus , little son ager , field	agel-lus , little field
	homō , man	homun-culus , manikin

1. Observe that the Nominative endings -ulus (after a vowel -olus), -lus, -culus are added to noun stems to form diminutives.

Compare with these the English words brooklet, rivulet, bracelet, versicle, reticule.

- | | |
|------------------------|---|
| 345. homō , man | hum-ānus , belonging to man, human |
| lāc , milk | lact-eus , belonging to milk, lacteal |
| alius , another | ali-ēnus , belonging to another, alien |
| cīvis , citizen | cīv-icus , belonging to a citizen, civic |
| Rōma , Rome | Rōm-ānus , belonging to Rome, Roman |

Observe the formation of the preceding adjectives, and of the corresponding English words.

ARATRUM

WORD FORMATION

- | | |
|--------------------------|--|
| 346. nāvis , ship | nāv-ālis , pertaining to a ship, naval |
| servus , slave | serv-īlis , pertaining to a slave, servile |
| cōsul , consul | cōsul-āris , pertaining to a consul, consular |

1. Observe that the endings -ālis, -īlis, -āris, denote belonging or pertaining to. The very common English endings -al, -ar, -il, -ile, are derived from these.

- | | |
|------------------------------|--|
| 347. eques , horseman | eques-ter , belonging to a horseman, equestrian |
| silva , wood | silves-ter , belonging to a forest, wooded |
| nōs , we, us | nos-ter , belonging to us, our |

What is the adjective corresponding to pedēs, foot soldier — ?
to terra, land — ?

- | | |
|---------------------------|--|
| 348. capi-ō , take | capt-īvus , captive |
| cupi-ō , desire | cup-idus , desirous, eager |
| tene-ō , hold | ten-āx , prone to hold, tenacious |
| aude-ō , dare | aud-āx , — ? |
| pūgn-ō , fight | pūgn-āx , — ? |

1. Observe that the endings -ivus, -idus, are added to verb stems to express state, and -āx to express tendency.

349. ag-ō , drive	ag-ilis , active, agile
faci-ō , make, do	fac-ilis , easy (that which can be done)
nōsc-ō , know	nō-bilis , known, noble
exim-ō , select	exim-ius , selected, remarkable

1. Observe that the endings -ilis, -bilis, -ius, are added to verb stems to express passive qualities.

350. arma , arms	arm-ō , āre , arm
hiems , winter	hiem-ō , āre , pass the winter
albus , white	albe-ō , ēre , be white
metus , fear	metu-ō , ere , fear
finis , end	fini-ō , īre , end

1. Observe that verbs of the four conjugations are derived from noun stems. This is true of most of the three hundred and sixty verbs of the First Conjugation, some of the Second and Third, and many of the Fourth.

351. Compounds. — A simple word is one containing a single stem: dux, duc-. A compound word is one containing two or more stems: agricola = agri + cola (agro- + cole-) ; ager, field ; colō, cultivate ; agricola, one who cultivates a field, a farmer.

Pro-avus, great-grandfather, prō + avus, preposition + noun. Arti-fex, artisan, arti- (stem of ars) + fex (faciō), noun stem + verb stem. Per-gravis, very heavy, per + gravis, preposition + adjective. Īn-fidus, not to be trusted, in + fidus, negative particle + adjective. Māgn-animus, great-hearted, māgno + animus. adj. stem + noun. Ex-eō, go out, ex + eō, preposition + verb.

352. In 338-351 you have seen how words are formed by the addition of prefixes and suffixes. A great many words in Latin group themselves about a single root. In learning a Latin vocabulary bear this in mind, and associate together words which have a common root. Many words are of doubtful origin, but in the following exercises only those whose origin is practically certain, and which are in frequent use, will be given.

353. Study carefully the words in the group in this and succeeding lessons, and endeavor to explain the formation of each word, referring to 338-350.

1. At the end of each group a list of English derivatives has been given which should be carefully studied for the purpose of enlarging your English vocabulary, and emphasizing the relation between your own language and the Latin.

354. Root duc, lead.

dūc-ō , lead	duc-tor , —?	intrō-dūcō , lead into
dux , leader	in-duc-tiō , —?	intrō-duc-tiō , —?

Form compounds with ad, con, dē, in, re, and give meanings.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD, Sum—INDEPENDENT USE OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE

400.	PRESENT	IMPERFECT	PERFECT	PLUPERFECT
SING.	1. si-m	es-se-m	fu-eri-m	fu-isse-m
	2. sī-s	es-sē-s	fu-eri-s	fu-issē-s
	3. si-t	es-se-t	fu-eri-t	fu-isse-t
PLUR.	1. sī-mus	es-sē-mus	fu-eri-mus	fu-issē-mus
	2. sī-tis	es-sē-tis	fu-eri-tis	fu-issē-tis
	3. si-nt	es-se-nt	fu-eri-nt	fu-isse-nt

1. Observe that the Imperfect Subjunctive is made from the Present Infinitive, the Pluperfect Subjunctive from the Perfect Infinitive.

2. Note also the one difference in inflection between the Perfect Subjunctive and the Future Perfect Indicative (see 208). Note that the Future and Future Perfect tenses are lacking in the Subjunctive.

401. The Subjunctive is used either independently or dependently. It is used in independent clauses to express —

1. An exhortation : Sīmus fortēs, let us be brave.

A command : Sit miser, let him be wretched.

A prohibition : Nē fueris inimicus, do not be unfriendly.

In this use it is called the Hortatory Subjunctive.

2. A wish : Utinam essem Rōmae, would that I were at Rome.

In this use it is called the Optative Subjunctive.

3. A possibility : Aliquis sit amicus, some one may be a friend. In this use it is called the Potential Subjunctive.

4. Doubt or Indignation in questions : Quid faciamus ? What shall we do ? In this use it is called the Dubitative Subjunctive.

The use of the Subjunctive in dependent clauses will be gradually discussed as the work advances.

LESSON LXI

THE SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD — SEQUENCE OF TENSES

406. The tenses of the Subjunctive in dependent clauses follow special laws of sequence.

407. All tenses are divided into two classes, primary and secondary.

¹ See 401, 2. ² Eurystheus. ³ Tīryns, Tīrynthis, or Tīrynthos, Tīryns (an ancient town of Argolis). ⁴ interficere, subject of sit. Translate, Let it be a care to you to kill, or See that you kill . . .

408. The primary tenses express present or future time : the Present, Pure Perfect,¹ Future, and Future Perfect Indicative, the Present and Perfect Subjunctive, and the Present and Future Imperative.

409. The secondary tenses express past time : the Imperfect, Perfect Historical,² and Pluperfect Indicative, and the Imperfect and Pluperfect Subjunctive.

410. General Rule for Sequence of Tenses. — In complex sentences a primary tense in the principal clause is followed by a primary in the subordinate, a secondary by a secondary.

411. Examine the following : —

1. Monet ut sīmus bonī, he advises us to be good (that we may be).
2. Monēbit ut sīmus bonī, he will advise us to be good.
3. Monuit ut essēmus bonī, he advised us to be good (that we might be).
4. Monuerat ut essēmus bonī, he had advised us to be good.
5. Monēbat ut essēmus bonī, he was advising us to be good.
6. Monuit ut sīmus bonī, he has advised us to be good.
7. Monuerit ut sīmus bonī, he will have advised us to be good.

Learn these examples, and note the distinction in meaning and use of the tenses in 3 and 6. Learn carefully the list of primary and secondary tenses, and in the succeeding lessons point them out until you are thoroughly familiar with them.

1. Observe the signs of mood and tense in the above. In what respect do the Future Perfect Indicative active and the Perfect Subjunctive differ?

2. Inflect as above teneō, terreō, dēleō, observing carefully the principal parts of dēleō.

426. Examine the following : —

1. Vereor nē pūgnet, I fear that he will fight.
2. Vereor ut pūgnet, I fear that he will not fight.
3. Veritus sum nē pūgnāret, I feared that he would fight.
4. Veritus sum ut pūgnāret, I feared that he would not fight.

Observe the use of nē and ut with verbs of fearing, and compare this use with that seen in the preceding lesson.

Observe that the Subjunctive may be translated by the English Future Indicative ; also that the dependent verbs follow the law of sequence of tenses (406-410).

RULE. — Verbs and other expressions of fearing are followed by the Subjunctive with nē affirmative and ut negative.

4. Eum continēre nōn potuī quīn castra mūnīret, I could not restrain him from fortifying the camp.

Observe that the subordinate clauses above express result, that they take the Subjunctive, that they follow the law of sequence of tenses (410), that the affirmative particle is ut, the negative ut nōn.

Observe that in 3 and 4 the Subjunctive is used after quīn (quī nōn).

RULES. — 1. In clauses of result the Subjunctive is used with ut affirmative, and ut nōn negative.

2. After expressions of doubt, hindrance, and the like, the Subjunctive with quīn is used.

NOTE. — Clauses of result are very often introduced by ita, thus, so; tālis, e, such; tantus, a, um, so great; tam, so.

LESSON LXVII

REVIEW OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD — INDIRECT QUESTIONS

453. Review carefully 400, 416-417, 424-425, 432-433, 439-440, 446-447.

454. Examine the following : —

1. Quid dīcis? what are you saying? Sciō quid dīcās, I know what you are saying.
2. Quid dīxistī? what did you say? Sciō quid dīxeris, I know what you said.
3. Quid dīxistī? what did you say? Scīvī quid dīcerēs, I knew what you were saying.
4. Quid dīxistī? what have you said? Scīvī quid dīxissēs, I knew what you had said.
5. Ubi est? where is he? Sciō ubi sit, I know where he is.
6. Unde vēnit? whence has he come? Scīvī unde vēnisset, I knew whence he had come.

Observe that in each case the first sentence is introduced by an interrogative word and is independent, that the dependent clause of the second sentence in each case is introduced by the same interrogative word and contains the same substance as the first, although it has not the form of a question.

The first is called a direct question, the second an indirect question.

RULE. — The Subjunctive mood is used in indirect questions.

Such questions may be introduced by interrogative pronouns, adjectives, and adverbs, and by the particles num and nē.

Review rules for sequence of tenses (410).

461. A conditional sentence consists of two clauses, a dependent and an independent.

The dependent clause contains the condition, and is called the Protasis.

The independent clause contains the conclusion, and is called the Apodosis.

The protasis is generally introduced by sī, if, or one of its compounds.

Simple conditions are found in present or past time.

1. Present : Sī venit, fīdus est, if he comes, he is faithful.

2. Past : Sī vēnit, fīdus fuit, if he came, he was faithful.

Observe that in 1 the Present Indicative is used in both clauses, in 2 the Perfect Indicative, and that in both nothing is implied as to the fulfillment of the condition.

468. Future conditions are divided into two classes, more vivid and less vivid.

More vivid or probable :

1. Sī veniet, laetus erō, if he comes (shall come), I shall be glad.
2. Sī vēnerit, laetus erō, if he comes (shall have come), I shall be glad.

Less vivid, or possible :

1. Sī veniat, laetus sim, if he should come, I should be glad.
2. Sī vēnerit, laetus sim, if he should come (should have come), I should be glad.

1. Observe that in the more vivid future condition, the Future or Future Perfect Indicative is used in the protasis, and the Future Indicative in the apodosis, and that necessarily the condition is not yet fulfilled.

2. Observe that in the less vivid future condition, the Present or Perfect Subjunctive is used in the protasis, and the Present Subjunctive in the apodosis, and that necessarily the condition is not yet fulfilled. Note also that in the Latin in the future condition there is greater precision in regard to time than in the English.

3. The Future and Future Perfect Indicative are both translated by the English Present, and the Present and Perfect Subjunctive by our Potential, with should.

RULES. — 1. The Future (or Future Perfect) Indicative is used in the protasis of more vivid future conditions, and the Future Indicative in the apodosis.

2. The Present (or Perfect) Subjunctive is used in the protasis of less vivid future conditions, and the Present Subjunctive in the apodosis.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD, Fiō — CONDITIONS CONTRARY TO FACT — WORD LIST

473. Fiō, used as passive of faciō Princ. Parts, fiō, fieri, factus sum

	SING.	PLUR.
PRESENT	1. fiā-m	fiā-mus	IMPERFECT	fiē-re-m, fiē-rē-s , etc.
	2. fiā-s	fiā-tis	PERFECT	factus sim , etc.
	3. fiā-t	fiā-nt	PLUPERFECT	factus essem , etc.

474. Examine the following : —

1. Sī pater mē timēret, ab ēius oculis concēderem, if my father feared me, I should withdraw from his sight.

This implies : My father does not fear me, I do not withdraw. The condition (protasis) is not fulfilled, the conclusion (apodosis) does not follow.

2. Sī pater mē timuisset, ab ēius oculis concēdissem, if my father had feared me, I should have withdrawn from his sight.

This implies : My father did not fear me, I did not withdraw. The condition was not fulfilled, the conclusion did not follow.

Observe carefully in the above that the condition in each case states what is not a fact, and that the conclusion does not follow.

Observe that in both protasis and apodosis the verbs are in the Subjunctive, that in 1 they are both in the Imperfect, and express present time, and that in 2 they are both in the Pluperfect, and express past time.

RULE. — In conditions contrary to fact, the Imperfect and Pluperfect Subjunctive are used in both protasis and apodosis, the Imperfect to express present time, and the Pluperfect to express past time.

475. Examine the following : —

1. Nisi id fieret, nōn adessem, if this were not being done, I should not be here. It is being done, I am here.
2. Nisi id factum esset, nōn adfuissem, if this had not been done, I should not have been here. It did take place, I was here.

Observe that the same points are true of these two sentences as of those in 474, except that the statements of the protases and apodoses are in the negative form.

Note also that the same rule holds.

Make out and commit to memory a table of the Imperative endings, both active and passive. Observe carefully in the above paradigms the part to which the endings are joined, and note that this part is precisely the same in both voices.

502. Make a careful review of noun forms of the Fourth and Fifth Declensions, 584, 585.

503. The Imperative is used to express an exhortation, entreaty, or command, but the Subjunctive is often used in its place.

504. Examine the following :—

1. Mūnīte oppidum, fortify the town.
2. Meōs liberōs vōbīs permittam ; eōs cōservātōte, I shall intrust my children to you ; do you guard them carefully.
3. Nē mūniveritis oppidum, do not fortify the town.
4. Nōlīte ² mūnīre oppidum, do not fortify the town.

Observe that the Present Imperative is used in commands, unless, as in 2, distinct reference is made to future time ; that, as in 3, nē with the second person of the Perfect Subjunctive, or, as in 4, the Present Imperative of nōlō with the Infinitive, is used to express a prohibition.

² Nōlīte, be unwilling, second person plural of the Present Imperative of nōlō.

- RULES. — 1. The Present Imperative is used in commands and entreaties, but the Future Imperative is used when distinct reference is made to future time.
2. In prohibitions, nē with the Perfect Subjunctive, or nōlī (nōlīte) with the Infinitive, is used.

THE GERUND AND GERUNDIVE—SOME WAYS OF EXPRESSING PURPOSE

514. The Gerund is a verbal noun governing the same case as its verb, and having the meaning of the English verbal in -ing. (Distinguish the English present participle from this verbal.)

515. The Gerund is found only in the oblique cases of the singular.

1. Bellandī causā,¹ for the purpose of waging war.
2. Cōnsilium parcendī ² victīs, a plan for sparing the conquered.

516.	CONJ. FIRST	SECOND	THIRD	THIRD IN -iō	FOURTH
G.	voca-ndī	mone-ndī	rege-ndī	capie-ndī	audie-ndī
D.	voca-ndō	mone-ndō	rege-ndō	capie-ndō	audie-ndō
Ac.	voca-ndum	mone-ndum	rege-ndum	capie-ndum	audie-ndum
Ab.	voca-ndō	mone-ndō	rege-ndō	capie-ndō	audie-ndō

1. Observe carefully the law of formation of the Gerund from the verb stem, and note that, in the Fourth Conjugation and in verbs in -iō of the Third, the verb stem is increased by the addition of e before the case endings.

517. Examine the following : —

1. Magister docet artem legendī, the master teaches the art of reading.
2. Hī librī idōneī sunt legendō, these books are suitable for reading.
3. Magister mihi dat librōs ad legendum, the master gives me books to read (for reading).
4. Magister fit sapiēns legendō, the master becomes wise by reading.

Observe in the above examples the use of the Gerund, governed

² Note that parcendī governs the Dative.

as a noun would be in the four oblique cases by artem, idōnei, ad, and fit, respectively.

RULE. — The Gerund, as a noun, has the construction of other nouns, and, as a verb, retains its power of governing an object.

518. Examine the following : —

1. Nūlla erat spēs

a. pācem cōfirmandī (Gerund).

b. pācis cōfirmandae (Gerundive).

} There was no hope of establishing peace.

2. Tempus erat idōneum

a. pācem cōfirmandō (Gerund), rare.

b. pācī cōfirmandae (Gerundive).

} The time was suitable for establishing peace.

3. Misit lēgātōs

a. ad pācem cōfirmandum (Gerund), rare.

b. ad pācem cōfirmandam (Gerundive).

} He sent ambassadors to establish peace.

4. Cōnsilia fēcit

a. dē pācem cōfirmandō (Gerund), rare.

b. dē pāce cōfirmandō (Gerundive).

} He made plans for establishing peace.

519. 1. Observe carefully the differences between a and b in each of the above. Note also that the Gerund and Gerundive are translated precisely alike.

2. Observe that the Gerundive is used as an adjective in agreement with a noun which takes the case the Gerund would have had if used.

3. Observe that in the Genitive case either of the above constructions may be used, but that in the other cases the Gerundive is much preferred.

4. Observe that both Gerund and Gerundive are used to express purpose.

RULE. — The Gerundive is used by preference instead of the Gerund when the latter would, if used, take a direct object. This object is then put into the case in which the Gerund, if used, would have been, and the Gerundive agrees with it in gender, number, and case.

LESSON LXXVII

THE SUPINE — EXPRESSIONS OF PURPOSE — WORD LIST

524. The Supine is a verbal substantive of the Fourth Declension, found only in the Accusative singular (Former Supine), and in the Ablative singular (Latter Supine): rogātum, rogātū.

525. Examine the following: —

1. Hōc est difficile factū, this is difficult to do (in respect to the doing).
2. Hōc est fās dictū, this is right to say.

Observe that factū and dictū express acts in respect to which the quality is asserted.

RULE. — The latter Supine is used with some adjectives and a few other words to express the act in reference to which the quality is asserted.

NOTE. — These adjectives usually denote ease or difficulty, pleasure or displeasure, right or wrong.

526. Examine the following : —

1. Lēgātī ad eum pācem petītum vēnērunt, ambassadors came to him to beg peace.

Observe that petītum expresses the purpose for which the ambassadors came.

RULE. — The former Supine is used with verbs of motion to express the purpose of the motion.

527. Expressions of purpose. — The most common of these are illustrated in the following examples : —

Lēgātī vēnērunt	{	ut pācem peterent	{	the ambassadors came to seek peace. quī pācem peterent pācis petendae causā pācem petendī causā
		ad pācem petendam pācem petītum

528. You will observe from these examples that purpose may be expressed by (1) a clause with ut, etc., with the Subjunctive, (2) a clause with quī and the Subjunctive, (3) the Gerundive or Gerund with causā, (4) the Gerundive in the Accusative with ad, (5) the former Supine with a verb of motion.

LESSON LXXVIII

THE PERIPHRASTIC CONJUGATIONS—DATIVE OF THE AGENT

NOTE.—Review the Future Active participle and the Gerundive of the regular verb. See 331, with 1.

534. First or Active Periphrastic Conjugation

PRES.	vocā-tūr-us (moni-tūr-us , etc.) sum , I am about to call, intend to call.
IMPERF.	vocā-tūr-us eram , etc., I was about to call, etc.
FUT.	vocā-tūr-us erō , etc., I shall be about to call, etc.
PERF.	vocā-tūr-us fuī , etc., I was or have been about to call, etc.
PLUP.	vocā-tūr-us fueram , etc., I had been about to call, etc.
FUT. PERF.	vocā-tūr-us fuerō , etc., I shall have been about to call, etc.

535. Examine the following :—

1. Quaerō quid factūrus sit, I ask what he is going to do, intends to do, will do.
2. Quaesivī quid factūrus esset, I asked what he was going to do, etc.

Observe in the above sentences that in the indirect question the first periphrastic conjugation takes the place of the lacking Future Subjunctive.

This is true of all forms of indirect discourse.

536. Second or Passive Periphrastic Conjugation

PRES.	voca-ndus (mone-ndus) sum , I have to be, ought to be, must be called.
IMPERF.	voca-ndus eram , I had to be called, etc.
FUT.	voca-ndus erō , I shall have to be called, etc.
PERF.	voca-ndus fuī , I had or have had to be called, etc.
PLUP.	voca-ndus fueram , I had had to be called, etc.
FUT. PERF.	voca-ndus fuerō , I shall have had to be called, etc.

1. The Subjunctive and Infinitive in the periphrastic conjugations are formed according to the same law as the Indicative.

537. Examine the following :—

1. Signum Caesarī dandum est, Caesar has to give the signal (the signal must be given by Caesar).
2. Militibus ad montem currendum est, the soldiers must run to the mountain.

Observe that in the above, duty, necessity, or obligation is implied, and that the name of the person upon whom the duty, necessity, or obligation rests is in the Dative case.

Observe the impersonal use¹ of the verb in 2.

RULE. — The person upon whom the duty, necessity, or obligation rests is expressed by the use of the second periphrastic conjugation, with the Dative of the agent.

LESSON LXXIX

THE INDIRECT DISCOURSE—PRINCIPAL AND SUBORDINATE CLAUSES

542. The Indirect Discourse has been already defined, and simple illustrations of its use given. See 263, 304.

Fix in memory the fact that verbs of saying, knowing, perceiving, and the like, introduce the indirect discourse, that the verbs of its principal propositions are in the Infinitive mood, and that the tenses of the Infinitive denote time, present, past, or future, with reference to that of the verb which introduces the indirect discourse.

543. Examine the following :—

1. Dīcit sē audīre

quid faciam	} He says that he	} what I am doing.
quid fēcerim quid factūrus sim
	hears or is	what I have done or did.
	hearing	what I am about to do.

2. Dīcit sē audīvisse

quid facerem	} He says that he	} what I did or was doing.
quid fēcissem
quid factūrus essem
	heard or has	what I had done.
	heard	what I was about to do.

3. Dīcit sē audītūrum esse

quid faciam	} He says that he	} what I am doing.
quid fēcerim quid factūrus sim
	will hear	what I have done or did.
		what I am about to do.

4. Dīxit sē audīre

quid facerem	} He said that he	} what I did or was doing.
quid fēcissem
quid factūrus essem
	heard or was	what I had done.
	hearing	what I was about to do.

5. Dīxit sē audīvisse

quid facerem	} He said that he	} what I did or was doing.
quid fēcissem
quid factūrus essem
	had heard	what I had done.
		what I was about to do.

6. Dīxit sē audītūrum esse

quid facerem	} He said that he	} what I did or was doing.
quid fēcissem
quid factūrus essem
	should hear	what I had done.
		what I was about to do.

1. Observe that while the verb of the principal proposition in the indirect discourse is in the Infinitive, that of the subordinate proposition is in the Subjunctive. This holds true in all subordinate propositions, — relative, interrogative, temporal, conditional, causal, etc.

2.¹ Observe sharply the use of tenses in the leading verb, in the Infinitive, and 2² in the verbs of the subordinate clauses.

3. Note that the Perfect Infinitive may represent any past tense of the Indicative.

Learn the above examples, with their English meanings.

RULE. — In the Indirect Discourse, the verbs of the principal propositions are in the Infinitive, the verbs of the subordinate propositions in the Subjunctive.

CONTINUOUS LATIN PROSE

NOTE. — The pupil should now be able to translate the following continuous passages with ease. Most of the words have been already given in the special vocabularies as English equivalents of Latin words, and frequently used in the Latin-English and English-Latin exercises. The few others can be easily learned from the general vocabulary at the end of the book. All difficult constructions and new idioms will be explained in notes following each exercise, and frequent references made to points already emphasized.

557.

EXERCISE I

Caesar, a brave and famous general of the Romans, conquered the forces of the Helvetians in Gaul. He also conquered Ariovistus, king of the Germans, in a great battle. He then led his army among the Sequani, and he himself hastened into the interior of Gaul.¹ There he called together his lieutenants and enrolled two new legions, for the Belgae were conspiring against the Roman people and bringing their forces together into one place.

EXERCISE II

Bibrax was a town of the Remi near the river Axona. This town the Belgae began to attack on the march with great force. Iccius, a man of¹ great authority and influence among the Remi, informed Caesar of² the plans of the Belgae. He said³ that the Remi were not preparing arms, but were ready to give hostages to the Romans, receive them into their towns, and⁴ assist them with grain and other things which were of use⁵ to them for war. He said, moreover, that the Germans were in arms, and were making a conspiracy against the Roman people.

¹ Use Ablative of quality. See 157. ² dē. ³ Observe that "said" introduces the indirect discourse. See 543. ⁴ Omit. ⁵ See 129.

EXERCISE III

Caesar, because the danger of the Remi was great and their safety a care¹ to him, sent as an aid to them archers and slingers. The Bellovaci surpassed the rest of the Belgae in valor,² and in the number of men who could³ bear arms; but the chief command⁴ of the war was conferred upon Galba, king of the Suessiones. After⁵ hostages had been given by the Remi, Caesar led his forces across the river, and ordered his soldiers to fortify the camp with a wall and a ditch.

EXERCISE IV

After the enemy had been defeated in a fierce cavalry battle, Caesar led his men back into the camp, but the enemy tried to storm the redoubt and cut down the bridge which was over the river. When our men saw this, they hastened toward them and killed a great number. After this battle they decided to return home,¹ and, at the second watch,² they set out from the camp with a great shout. Caesar pursued, and having killed many of them, returned to the camp. On the day after this, he led his forces into the territory of the Suessiones and hastened to the town of Noviodunum.³

561.

EXERCISE V

After Caesar began to push up the sheds and to prepare those things which were of use¹ for assaulting, the Suessiones, alarmed by the magnitude of the works, surrendered themselves to the Romans. Caesar received as hostages the chief men of the state, and among them the two sons of Galba himself. Then, having established² peace, he led his cavalry and infantry forces against the Bellovaci, who immediately surrendered themselves and all their property³ to the Roman people, and gave Caesar six hundred hostages, the children of the nobility.

EXERCISE VI

Caesar then led his army against the Nervii, a fierce and hostile nation, who neither gave hostages nor accepted terms of peace. Our soldiers had chosen for a camp a hill which sloped gradually¹ to the river. Across this river the Nervii had seized another hill. At the top² of this hill were dense woods in which the enemy had concealed themselves. Along³ the river a few horsemen were seen. Our cavalry, which Caesar had sent forward, hastened to join battle with them, but were in a short time defeated by the enemy, who suddenly made an attack against them from the woods.

EXERCISE VII

Caesar had¹ to do everything at one time. He drew up his army more² as the nature of the place, than² as the plan of military affairs, demanded. The soldiers of the ninth and tenth legions were fighting on the left wing,³ and the two legions which had been most recently enrolled met⁴ the enemy on the banks of the river, but the Romans who had been defeated in the first attack,⁵ again sought safety in flight. Caesar, greatly disturbed, advanced to the line of battle, and ordered his men to use their swords. At his arrival, their courage was renewed. They met the enemy with fresh strength,⁶ and drove them to the banks of the river. Here the Nervii fought with their swords, but our men threw missiles from a higher place and killed a great number of them. The rest, frightened, fled, and thus the name and nation of the Nervii were reduced almost to destruction.

EXERCISE VIII

The Aduatuci, who had come with all their forces to the aid ¹ of the Nervii, betook themselves to a fortified town, and determined to defend themselves against the Romans. For a few days they contended with our soldiers in slight engagements,² but at length, being alarmed by the strength and quickness of the Romans, they sent ambassadors to Caesar concerning surrender. They pretended³ to throw all their arms into the ditch before the town, but they had concealed about a third part within the walls. In the night they made a sally from the town, but were easily repulsed by the Romans.

EXERCISE IX

Caesar sent Galba ¹ with the tenth legion and a great part of the cavalry against the Nantuates, whose territories extend to the summits of the Alps. He ordered him to place² two legions there, and to fortify the village of Octodurus.³ After many days of winter-quarters, Galba ordered grain to be brought from the fields; but it was not brought, for the Nantuates had suddenly withdrawn from the village by night, and the mountains were held by a great number of the enemy, who were preparing war. Galba hearing⁴ of this, decided to defend the camp.

¹ Not the Galba who was king of the Suessiones, but one of Caesar's lieutenants. ² conlocō. ³ 560, n. 3. ⁴ hōc audītō.

EXERCISE X

After a brief time, the enemy made an attack upon our men, and hurled stones against the rampart. Then our soldiers rushed against them from all quarters of the camp, and drove them back. After¹ this battle was finished, Galba led his men safe into the territory of the Allobroges, and wintered there. In the meantime, a new war arose² among the Veneti. Caesar having been informed of these things, sent Brutus with a fleet to capture³ their boats. After this had been done, he quickly brought⁴ the war to an end.

EXERCISE XI

While these things were going on among the Veneti, Caesar sent Quintus¹ Titurius Sabinus against the Unelli, and ordered him to hinder them from injury and mischief. Sabinus selected a place for a camp suitable in all respects, and kept himself and his men in this camp for many days. In the meantime, many states had come as² an aid to the enemy. Sabinus hearing³ of this, attacked them suddenly, and easily conquered them. They fled, some⁴ in one direction, and others in another, but our men pursued and wounded many. Sabinus announced his victory to Caesar, and at the same time was informed of Caesar's naval battle.

RULES OF SYNTAX

THE following rules have been given in the body of this book, preceded by illustrative examples and notes. They are repeated here for convenience of reference. The numbers following the rules refer to the illustrative examples.

629. Nominative Subject. — The subject of a finite verb is in the Nominative case (32).

630. Adjective. — An adjective agrees with its noun in gender, number, and case (32).

631. Direct Object. — The direct object of a transitive verb is in the Accusative case (42).

632. Limiting Genitive. — A noun limiting another, and denoting a different person or thing, is in the Genitive case (52).

633. Order of Words. — The normal order of a Latin sentence is: subject, modifiers of the subject, modifiers of the verb, verb; but this order is constantly changed for the sake of emphasis (53).

634. Indirect Object. — The Dative is the case of the indirect object, and is used with verbs of giving, and others whose meaning permits (58).

635. Ablative of Separation. — Verbs of depriving and freeing take the Ablative without a preposition. In case of other verbs of separation the usage varies, some taking the Ablative with a preposition, some without, and some admitting either construction (70).

636. Complementary Infinitive. — The Infinitive is used with verbs meaning to decide, hasten, begin, and in general with those requiring a second action of the same subject to complete their meaning (74).

637. Predicate Nominative. — A noun in the predicate with an intransitive or passive verb, agrees with the subject in case (75).

638. Appositive. — A noun limiting another, and denoting the same person or thing, is said to be in apposition with it, and agrees with it in case (75).

639. Ablative of Specification. — The Ablative is used to express that in respect to which anything is, or is done (94).

640. Ablative of Accompaniment. — The Ablative with cum is used to express accompaniment, but in military phrases cum may be omitted (114).

641. Adjectives as Substantives. — Plural adjectives are used quite frequently as substantives, the masculine to denote persons, the neuter to denote things (119).

642. Double Dative. — The Latin often uses a Dative of the object for which together with another Dative of the person for whom, where the English uses a predicate noun, and an indirect object. This is called the Double Dative, and is used principally with the verb sum (129).

643. Accusative of Time and Space. — Duration of time and extent of space are expressed by the Accusative (141).

644. Dative of the Possessor. — The Dative is used with sum and similar verbs to denote the possessor (146).

645. Agreement of Relative. — The relative pronoun agrees with its antecedent in gender, number, and person; but its case depends upon its relation to other words in the sentence (148).

646. Ablative of Quality or Description. — The Ablative, with an adjective in agreement with it, is used to express quality (157).

647. Ablative of Time. — Time when, or within which, is expressed by the Ablative (167).

648. Ablative Absolute. — A noun or pronoun limited by a participle is often used in the construction called the Ablative Absolute, to express the time or other circumstances of an action (176).

NOTE. — Two nouns or a noun and an adjective may be used together in the Ablative Absolute (178).

649. Ablative of Cause.—The Ablative is used with or without a preposition to denote cause (184).

NOTE.—The prepositions dē and ex with the Ablative, and ob and propter with the Accusative, are used to express cause (184).

650. Ablative of Manner.—The manner in which an act is performed is expressed by a noun in the Ablative with cum when it has no qualifying adjective, by the Ablative with or without cum when it has a qualifying adjective (192).

651. Ablative with Comparatives.—The Ablative is used after the comparative when quam is omitted, but when it is expressed the same case follows as precedes (204).

NOTE.—Quam may be used with any case preceding; it need not be used after the Nominative or Accusative; it must be used after the other cases.

652. Use of Comparative.—The comparative is sometimes used to express a rather high or too high a degree of the quality (205, 1).

653. Use of Superlative.—The superlative is often used to express not the highest, but a very high, degree of the quality (205, 2).

654. Ablative of Means.—The means or instrument of an action is expressed by the Ablative without a preposition (224).

655. Prepositions.—The following prepositions govern the Ablative only :

Ā, ab, or abs, absque, dē,
Cōram, palam, cum, ex, ē,
Sine, tenus, prō and prae.

In, sub, subter, and super govern both Ablative and Accusative. All other prepositions govern the Accusative only (228).

656. Special Rules for Prepositions.—

1. Ab is used where motion away from a place is indicated.
2. Ex is used where motion out of a place is indicated.
3. In and sub govern the Accusative with verbs of motion, the Ablative with verbs of rest (229).

657. Ablative of the Agent. — The voluntary agent of an action is expressed by ā or ab with the Ablative case (230).

658. Adjectives of Order and Succession. — Adjectives of order and succession, including superlatives and some comparatives, denote what part of an object is meant (237).

659. Alius and Alter. — Alius and alter, repeated in another case, express briefly a double statement (251).

660. Indirect Discourse, Simple Sentences. — Statements after verbs and other expressions of saying, perceiving, thinking, and the like are expressed by the Infinitive with a subject in the Accusative (263).

661. Ablative of Degree of Difference. — The Ablative is used without a preposition to express the degree of difference between two persons or things (267).

662. Dative with Adjectives. — The Dative is used with adjectives denoting resemblance, fitness, nearness, and the like, with their opposites (289).

NOTE. — Adjectives of fitness may take an Accusative with ad.

663. Dative with Intransitives. — Some verbs, intransitive in Latin, though apparently transitive, are followed by a Dative of the indirect object. Such are verbs denoting to favor, help, please, trust, and their contraries; also to obey, serve, resist, envy, threaten, pardon, and spare (294).

664. Partitive Genitive. — Words denoting a part are used with a Genitive of the whole to which the part belongs (299).

NOTE. — Cardinal numbers and quidam generally take the Ablative with ex or dē to express the whole of which a part is taken, the ordinals generally take the partitive Genitive (300).

665. Time of Infinitive. — The Infinitive expresses time relative to that of the verb upon which it depends (304).

666. Dative with Compounds. — Most verbs compounded with ad, ante, con, in, inter, ob, post, prae, prō, sub, and super, and some with circum, are used with the Dative case (310).

667. Ablative with Deponents. — Ūtor, fruor, fungor, potior, and vescor, with their compounds, take the Ablative (316).

668. Two Accusatives. — Verbs of naming, making, choosing, calling, and showing take two Accusatives, one of the person or thing affected, the other a predicative Accusative (357).

NOTE. — In the passive the direct object becomes the subject, and the predicate Accusative the predicate Nominative.

669. Constructions of Place. — 1. The place from which is regularly expressed by the Ablative with a preposition, regularly ab, dē, or ex; but names of towns and small islands, also domus and rūs, omit the preposition (393).

2. The place to which is regularly expressed by the Accusative with a preposition; but names of towns and small islands, also domus and rūs, omit the preposition (394).

3. The place in which is regularly expressed by the Ablative with the preposition in; but names of towns and small islands, also domus and rūs, are put into the Locative (395).

NOTE. — The Locative has the same form as the Genitive in singulars of the first and second declensions; but in singulars of the third declension and in all plurals the same as the Dative or Ablative. The Locative forms of domus and rūs are domī and rūrī.

670. The Subjunctive. — The Subjunctive is used in independent clauses to express —

1. An exhortation, a command, a prohibition: the Hortatory Subjunctive.
2. A wish: the Optative Subjunctive.
3. A possibility: the Potential Subjunctive.
4. Doubt or indignation in questions: The Dubitative Subjunctive (401).

671. Sequence of Tenses. — In complex sentences a primary tense in the principal clause is followed by a primary in the subordinate; a secondary by a secondary (410).

672. Clauses of Purpose. — In clauses of purpose the Subjunctive is used with ut affirmative and nē negative (419).

673. Verbs of Fearing. — Verbs and other expressions of fearing are followed by the Subjunctive with nē affirmative and ut negative (426).

674. Relative Clauses of Purpose. — Clauses introduced by relatives and used to express purpose have their verbs in the Subjunctive, and follow the general laws for the sequence of tenses (434).

675. Clauses of Result. — 1. Pure result is expressed by the Subjunctive with ut affirmative, ut nōn negative (441).

2. After expressions of doubt, hindrance, and the like, the Subjunctive with quīn is used (441).

676. Subjunctive of Characteristic. — The Subjunctive is used, especially after expressions of existence and non-existence and questions implying a negative answer, to express a characteristic or essential quality of the subject (448).

677. Indirect Questions. — An indirect question is expressed by the Subjunctive (454).

678. Conditions. — More Vivid Future. — The Future (or Future Perfect) Indicative is used in the protasis of more vivid future conditions, and the Future Indicative in the apodosis (468).

679. Conditions. — Less Vivid Future. — The Present (or Perfect) Subjunctive is used in the protasis of less vivid future conditions, and the Present Subjunctive in the apodosis (468).

680. Conditions. — Contrary to Fact. — The Imperfect and Pluperfect Subjunctive are used in both protasis and apodosis in conditions contrary to fact, the Imperfect to express present time and the Pluperfect to express past time (474).

681. Cum Causal and Concessive. — Cum is followed by the Subjunctive when introducing causal and concessive clauses (487).

682. Temporal Clauses. — 1. The particles postquam, ubi, simul atque (simul ac) take the Indicative, usually the Perfect.

2. Cum temporal is used with the Subjunctive when the circumstance or action depends upon another, or when the time is described. It is used with the Indicative when the time is made emphatic or defined (494).

NOTE.—In narrative cum temporal is almost always used with the Imperfect or Pluperfect Subjunctive.

683. The Imperative. — 1. The Present Imperative is used in commands or entreaties, but where distinct reference is made to future time, the Future Imperative is used (504).

2. In prohibitions nē with the Perfect Subjunctive, or nōli (nōlite) with the Infinitive, is used (504).

684. The Gerund. — The Gerund, as a noun, has the construction of other nouns, and, as a verb, retains its power of governing an object (517).

685. The Gerundive. — The gerundive is used by preference instead of the Gerund when the latter would, if used, take a direct object. This object is then put into the case in which the Gerund, if used, would have been, and the Gerundive agrees with it in gender, number and case (519).

NOTE.—The Gerund and Gerundive are used to express purpose (519).

686. The Supine. — The former Supine is used with verbs of motion to express the purpose of the motion (526).

687. The latter Supine is used with some adjectives and a few other words to express the act in reference to which the quality is asserted (525).

688. Dative of the Agent. — The person upon whom the duty, necessity or obligation of an act rests is expressed by the use of the Dative of the agent with the second periphrastic conjugation (537).

689. Indirect Discourse. — In the indirect discourse the verbs of the principal propositions are in the Infinitive, the verbs of the subordinate propositions in the Subjunctive (543).

ENGLISH-LATIN VOCABULARY

VERBS followed by the figures 1, 2, 4, have their principal parts formed regularly like those of the First, Second, and Fourth Conjugations, respectively, as given in the paradigms. Irregular verbs, verbs of the Third Conjugation, and those of the other three which have any irregularities, have their principal parts given. Where a simple verb and one or more of its compounds occur under one heading, the parts of the first only are given, unless a change takes place in composition. The figures in parentheses refer to section numbers in the main part of the book or in the appendix. For abbreviations, see general table on page 250.

First Latin Readings

An Equivalent for Cæsar

By R. ARROWSMITH, PH.D.

Professor of Latin and Greek, Teachers College, New York City

AND

G. M. WHICHER, M.A.

Instructor in Classics, Packer Collegiate Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cloth, 12mo, 344 pages. Price, $1.25

This work has been prepared in response to a growing demand for a new first reading book in Latin, offering more simple and interesting material for the second-year work than is now provided by Cæsar's Commentaries, the first connected reading pupils meet in the Latin course.

It is the aim of the present volume to offer for the student's first reading in Latin, material in which the least, rather than the more, difficult Latin comes first; which contains the largest possible general vocabulary, instead of a small special vocabulary; which is drawn from a wide, instead of a narrow, range of literature; and which may be associated with other departments of teaching with greater success and productiveness than Cæsar's Commentaries.

The selections in First Latin Readings have, therefore, been chosen with reference to their difficulty, their interest as literature, and, as far as possible, their relation to Roman life and custom, and not with reference to their exclusive use as drilling material on formal classical construction.

Exercises in Latin prose composition, based on the text of each author represented, have been prepared, and are included in the book.

Copies of First Latin Readings will be sent, prepaid, to any address on receipt of the price by the Publishers:

The First Greek Book

BY

C. W. GLEASON, A.M.

Master in the Roxbury Latin School

C. S. ATHERTON, A.M.

Late of the Roxbury Latin School

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY

WILLIAM C. COLLAR, A.M.

Flexible cloth, 285 pages. Illustrated. Price, $1.00

In the preparation of this new book for beginners, the authors have had in mind the changed position of Greek in the school course. Believing that the true aim of Greek study is the development of the power to read Greek authors, they have departed in many features from the time-honored practice of introductory Greek books. The essentials of the language are presented concisely and clearly; non-essentials are omitted; practice in form and construction is carried only far enough to insure definiteness.

Some of the distinctive features of the book are the following:

The second aorist, a tense constantly used, is introduced early in the book. Contract nouns and adjectives, always a stumbling-block, are postponed to a more natural position than is usually given them. The dual has been removed to its proper place, the appendix. Dialogues, fables, and reading exercises are given as early as possible and continued through the book. The study of forms begins with the verb, followed by the O-declension of nouns, as pupils find it easier to learn adjectives in the order of their declension, than to learn first the feminine, and later the masculine and neuter.

The English-Greek exercises have been made subordinate to the sentences to be translated into English, as that will be the pupil's main work in the study of Greek.
